Largest Class Of 310 Seniors Wins Diplomas

by MIKE JENSEN

The Sikeston high school graduating class of 1971 was the largest, perhaps the rowdiest, and happiest as the 70th annual commencement exercises marked the end of Memorial Day.

Under the theme of "We've Only Just Begun" the 310 graduates marched onto the high school football field to the strains of the traditional "Pomp and Circumstances," played by the sophomore band. The previous record size class was that of 1967 when there were 269 graduates.

Senior Class President George Hensley cited three traditions begun by the class of 1971 including the bleacher bums, the non-returnable graduation gowns, and the senior trip to St. Louis.

He urged future graduating classes to continue the traditions.

The exercises turned into a three ring circus when at least a half-dozen smoke bombs exploded among the seated graduates. The graduates appeared unruffled and Hensley told the large crowd "As you can see, this will be a graduation to remember."

Danny Dale Powers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Powers of route one, was named valedictorian. He was president of the Future Business Leaders of America and a finalist in the national merit scholarship competition. His accumulative grade point average was 3.887 on a four-point scale.

Powers has been accepted at the University of Missouri at Columbia.

Barbara O'Guinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill O'Guinn was the salutatorian. Her activities include; Red Peppers, Art Club, Honor Society, Concert Choir, Biology Club, Drama Club, news editor of the Barker and editor of the Growler.

Miss O'Guinn, also the receipient of the C. L. Blanton journalism award, presented annually by the Daily Standard, will attend the University of Missouri at Columbia to pursue a career in journalism.

Her grade point average was 3.73.

Principal Roger Sherman, terming the class "excellent", said that less than .3 of one point separated the top 10 students in the class.

Sherman said that 48 per cent of the class have made application to colleges, universities or trade schools. This is the largest percentage ever to seek higher education, Sherman said.

Lynn Twitty, making his final appearance as superintendent of schools, spoke of his 20 years in the school system.

Twitty said that in the past 20 years, 3,694 students have graduated from the high school and were "for the most part, upstanding citizens, and outstanding members of the community." Board of education members and the graduating class gave Twitty a standing ovation.

"We cannot reach our goals alone, we must have determination. And we must have faith in our fellow man and in God," she said.

Miss DuSablon was one of four students chosen by the class to speak at commencement.

Others chosen were Julie Harbin on the theme "To Trust with Understanding"; Sally Mitchell on the theme "To Love with Concern"; and Steve Forbis on the theme "To Live with Harmony."

Baccalaureate services were Sunday night with the Rev. Durward Penry, pastor of the First Christian Church, preaching.

"Seniors, you have come to that place in life where the world's wares are before you. You will want much of what you see, but remember payment is required. The wares of success are displayed before you. We all want some of that, but in order to have it the down payment of self-discipline, patience and hard work must be made—without the price, one cannot hope to attain the goal.

"You will be challenged at every turn to embrace ideas and ideals established by sources other than your own. You will be called upon to use your judgement. How often you have looked over the edge of the nest longing to be a part of a more exciting life—this life is now yours—handle it with care and the future will be yours," Penry told the graduates.

The Rev. James Hackney, First Baptist pastor, the Rev. Harold Lohrmann, Concordia Lutheran pastor, and the Rev. Ira Fruits, Miner Baptist pastor, also addressed the class.

White House Informed Hijacked Plane to Be Released Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today it has been informed by foreign diplomats that Cuba will release Wednesday a hijacked Pan American Airways plane and its 68 passengers and crew members detained in Havana since Saturday.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said this word came from the Swiss Embassy in Havana and the Czechoslovakian Embassy in Washington. The United States does not maintain diplomatic relations with Cuba.

There had been widespread speculation that the Pan Am plane and those aboard were being kept in Havana as hostages for the release of four Cuban fishing boat captains who have been held in Florida on charges of fishing in American waters.

Ziegler, when asked whether the Cuban fishermen would be released simultaneously with the return of the American air liner, referred such inquiries to the State Department.

Some sources said they understood Cuba had not connected the fishing incidents and the hijacked air liner. The Cuban fishermen were arrested Wednesday.

A Pan American Airways spokesman said in Miami that the plane might have been held in Havana because of the arrest of the Cuban boat captains.

And although the Cuban government remained silent today about its reasons for the threeday detention of the jet, Havana radio announced that another fleet of fishing boats was en route to the spot off the Florida keys where the boat captains were arrested.

Pan Am's public relations director, Robert Bohne, said Monday, "We don't have knowledge of it but we've been thinking that it might lengthen the stay of those passengers if the Cuban captains aren't released." The captains have been jailed in Key West and are awaiting trial June 7 on charges of violating the 12-mile American fishing zone.

U.S. Coast Guard officials said today no new Cuba flotilla had been sighted in the Keys area.

Havana Radio acknowledged Saturday's hijacking for the first time Monday. But it did not respond to a plea from Pan Am President Najeeb Halaby to release the Boeing 707, its 60 passengers and nine crew members.

In a Miami-monitored broadcast, the official voice of Fidel Castro's Communist regime said the plane was diverted from its Caracas-to-Miami flight by a "Venezuelan youth who claimed political reasons."

After the broadcast, Havana radio then dwelled on the fishing boat captains.

Flight 442 was commandeered by a hijacker who reportedly grabbed a woman passenger and threatened her with a knife, forcing the pilot to fly to Havana.

The plane began its trip Saturday in Buenos Aires with 21 passengers.

Thirty-nine more boarded in Caracas.

Caracas said Monday they had not identified the hijacker. They said a Cuban-American, Hugo Delagado, told them he was attacked by an unidentified man in the men's room at Caracas airport.

World War II Hero Audie Murphy One Of Six Victims of Mountaintop Crash

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — The wreckage of a chartered airplane carrying World War II hero Audie Murphy and five other men has been found on a rugged mountaintop near here.

Pathologists worked today trying to positively identify the bodies removed from the wreckage Monday by rescue workers and taken to Roanoke Community Hospital.

The rescue workers said three bodies might be identified by physical features, but the other three were burned so badly they were unrecognizable.

"All indications point to the fact that it is Audie," said Lincoln Carle, the 46-year-old Murphy's business manager. "We don't have positive identification but everything else matches."

As the nation's most decorated World War II hero, Murphy received 24 medals from the American government, three from the French and one from the Belgians.

He won the Medal of Honor after he mounted a burning American tank and, although wounded, held off with a .50caliber machine gun German troops which were advancing on him from three sides.

Besides the Medal of Honor he won the Distinguished Service Cross, the Legion of Merit, the Silver Star with Oak Leaf cluster, the Bronze Star and the Croix de Guerre. He also received the Purple Heart with two Oak Leaf clusters.

Murphy who rose to lieutenant also was commended for having killed 240 German soldiers.

Murphy had been flying to Martinsville 60 miles south of here on business. The plane went down Friday morning but the crash went undetected three days because of bad weather and because no flight plan had been filed.

Numbers still visible on the tail of the twin-engine Aero Commander matched those on the aircraft in which Murphy and five others had boarded in Atlanta. The wreckage was spotted Monday on the north side of 3,066-foot Brushy Mountain about 14 miles northwest of here. It was reached later in the day by rescue workers, who had to hike four miles up the steep mountain terrain.

The five persons who boarded the plane with Murphy were Claude Crosby, president of Modular Management, a subsidiary of Modular Properties Inc. of Atlanta; Jack Littleton of Fort Collins, Colo., secretary-treasurer of Lenoir Corp.; Raymond Prater, a Chattanooga, Tenn., lawyer representing Modular Management; Kim Dody of Ft. Collins, Colo., a friend of Littleton; and the pilot, Herman Butler of Denver, Colo.

Murphy turned to business several years ago after a 44movie career that included "To Hell and Back," a film based on his autobiography, and "The Red Badge of Courage."

He recently produced his first movie, "A Time for Dying," to be released later this month in which he played a cameo role and, said Carle, "gave one of his finest performances, as short as it was." Murphy's son Terry also had a brief part in the film.

Carle said plans were in the works for another picture in Mexico.

The plane, a propjet, last was heard from Friday morning when Butler radioed the flight service station at Roanoke's Woodrum Airport to advise he planned to land there in 40 minutes.

Rain and low ceiling at the time made a landing approach through the mountainous region hazardous.

Because the Murphy party had filed no flight plan, the Federal Aviation Administration said no reports had been received the plane was missing until Sunday afternoon.

Rainy, overcast weather made a search impossible until the skies cleared Monday.

A trooper said the plane "went in with tremendous force."

Three bodies were found in the plane; three were thrown out.

A spokesman for Modular Properties Inc., which specializes in factory-built homes, motels and other structures, said the Murphy party was on the way to Martinsville to inspect a company plant in which Murphy was considering investing.

He married twice, his first to actress Wanda Hendrix ending in divorce. His second wife, Pamela, a former airline stewardess, lived with Murphy and their two sons, Terry, 18, and James "Skipper," 16, in North Hollywood, Calif.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

If it were not for the fear of public opinion, most people would behave much worse than they do.

THEY SAY THAT June is the romantic month due to all of the weddings. Guess we who are invited to these weddings should tip our hat to Henry W. Seely for this help in coming up with an idea that many have used as appreciated gifts to such affairs. Way back in 1882 H. W. got a patent for the first electric flatiron. One of the biggest advantages of this invention was that the cord kept the flatiron from traveling too far when the bloom of love became rather wilted.

More serious events in the month include: Fight the Filthy Fly month, Ragweed control month, Seat Belt month and Rose month.

June 5 — Let's Play Golf Week begins
June 7 — Freedom of the Press Day
June 13 — National Flag Week begins, Root Beer Week
June 14 — Flag Day
June 20 — Father's Day, Amateur Radio Week begins
June 26 — National Tom Sawyer Days begins
June 27 — Freedom Week begins
June 30 — Old Milwaukee Days begins

Then looking ahead to the seventh month of the year we find National Barbecue Month, Hot Dog Month, Let's Play Tennis Week, Safe Boating Week, Anniversary of man's first landing on the moon; National Farm Safety Week plus the Fourth of July observance.

END THE DOLLAR CRISIS

Many things can be said against the late Benito Musselini, but he was more right than wrong when he called the great depression of 1929 "a vast bookkeeping error."

People were starving, and many more hungry amid plenty, or the possibility of producing plenty. At the same time, mules were balking at the unaccustomed task of plowing under every third row of cotton. Soon to come was the system of paying farmers not to produce food, which is still being done. The fields, the farmers, the factories, the workers, the managers, and the owners were all there, but something was wrong with the system.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt took the country off the gold standard, but dollars could still be exchanged for gold by foreign holders of our money. Gradually the United States regained a measure of prosperity. After World War II the United States was the richest and strongest nation in the world. The monetary and economic system could not have been all bad.

But affluent America overdid. We gave away $178 billion in Lend -Lease, aid, grants and gifts. The economy perked along and no one complained. But one of our World War II partners, the Soviet Union, proved to be an aggressor nation. Wo we had the Korean war and the Vietnam war, costly conflicts that started our balance of payments deficits in our foreign trade, 20 in the last 21 years.

Now there is a plethora of dollars in Europe. So let us do what has to be done to correct the situation, without hard feelings of name - calling among nations.

SUDAN: RUSSIA'S OWN 'VIETNAM'

At a time when America is struggling to extricate itself from Vietnam, Russia appears to be getting involved in a "Vietnam" of its own -- the war in Sudan which has been going on for the past nine years.

Russia - watchers in Washington have evidence that in the past six months 100 to 200 Soviet military advisers have been directly planning and participating in the counterguerrila operations of the Arab-led Sudan army against the Africans of southern Sudan.

A larger group of 300 or more Russians pilot and service Soviet - built helicopters and bombers supporting combat operations in the south. Up to 1,000 Soviet personnel in all are estimated to be supporting the Arabs as advisers, pilots, ground crews and missile technicians.

Soviet bombings in southern Sudan since October, according to U.S. intelligence information, have been carried out by five Antonov -24 aircraft armed with air -to -ground rockets and some of the 12 TU-16 medium bombers based in Sudan. In the north, at Port Sudan on the Red Sea, the Russians are building a naval base and installing SAM-2 antiaircraft missiles.

The Soviets are the principal backers of the army regime of Gen. Gaafar L. Numeiry, which seized power in May, 1969, with the stated purpose of bringing "Arab socialism" to all of Sudan.

Opposing them in the south are the Anyanya guerrillas, the military wing of the African movement. The six million southerners (population of Sudan is 15 million) have demand full regional autonomy, including control of the army, police, civil service, schools and economy in the south, as well as the freedom to practice Christianity and speak English, as opposed to the north's Islamic religion and insistence on the use of Arabic throughout Sudan.

The southern guerrillas' principal support has come from Israeli airdrops of light weaponry and ammunition in the past year.

The Sudan war is thus increasingly viewed as an extenison of the Middle East conflict. Soviet aims are believed to be both to establish a strong base from which Soviet naval power can be projected into the Red Sea and the Persian Gul fand to bottle up the Israelis on their Red Sea flank.

It is also seen as part of a longer - range Soviet strategy to influence Africa, continue to dominate the Arab world and to leapfrog beyond the Mediterranean and the West European NATO defense system.

I've never seen life,
But I've seen the flowers grow.
I've never seen love

But I have seen it transform

I Guess I'm Just A Square

I liked it when our public office holders were statesmen instead of politicians.

I liked it when our school teachers could use a board on an unruly child instead of having to stand there and look at a nosethumb.

I liked it in the summer when the ice cream social on the back porch was a family ritual instead of a quick trip to the freezer.

I liked it when our policemen were referred to as officers instead of "the fuzz".

I liked it when you would invite a punch in the nose if you let the American flag touch the ground instead of watching it being burned and desecrated.

I liked it when the family car was used for transportation and an occasional leisurely drive instead of being hot-rodded all over hell's half-acre.

I liked it when our nation's capitol was revered and honored instead of spawning a mecca of rioters, protestors and crime.

I liked it when the movies cost a dime, the popcorn a nickel and the most shocking scene you ever saw was Jimmy Cagney pushing a grapefruit into Mae Clark's face, instead of the sex, nudity, violence and perversion that permeates the screen.

I liked it when the Bible was the best seller instead of The Valley of the Dolls.

I liked it when you had to scrape for a dollar instead of waiting for Uncle Sam to hand it to you.

I liked it when you got a whale of a tanning for smoking corn silk instead of being gently chided for taking LSD.

I liked it when "the long hot summer" meant the old swimming hole, a picnic in the park, a cool lemonade in the shade, or a nap under a fan, instead of civil disorder, plundering, terror and murder.

I liked it when ... but I know I can't go back ... so I guess I'm just a square. -- Col. Lester Simpson in the Holden Progress

The men talk a good deal about house cleaning, but it is a fact that most wives clean house in such a way that the men are not put out, and have their meals on time. The only way the average man knows about the house cleaning is when he discovers that the bureau in the bedroom has been moved. Wives do a great many things to oblige their husbands for which they receive little credit.

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a long, long way from the night you decide to get married to the day the rings are slipped on, and being just halfway there, I'm feeling like something of a cross between a blushing bride and a hardnosed personnel manager.

It all began when he proposed, and the only thing we had to toast each other with was oysters on the half shell. By the time our luscious dinner of lobster and wine finally arrived, we were too excited to eat a bite.

Then we had to tell my parents. I thought it would be the revelation of the ages, and all my mother said was, "I knew it." When my newly announced husband-to-be called his mother, all I heard was, "Mom, I'm getting married." And the next thing I heard him say was, "No—not tomorrow."

We came up with a date for the big event eight months in the future. I figured there would be plenty of time for the "minor" preparations, since we only wanted a small wedding. Little did I know.

I had no sooner gotten back to work than the "mailed approach" began—with great packets arriving every day from my parents—full of information on china, crystal, decorating your first home and most important—recipes for beginners.

However, the folks soon gave up trying to communicate with me by mail, and the "phone approach" began.

But since I ended up talking more to my mother, my father soon began calling me at work on Monday mornings for equal time. Then, in the middle of the week my grandparents would call.

I did become the recipient of a beautiful diamond ring. Only trouble was it was about three sizes too big. I had to con a jeweler into cutting it down for me on the spot.

Not long ago we went back home for an engagement party—replete with more confusion.

I am getting used to the constant hassle. However my bridegroom is just now starting to become traumatized. He'll be all right though—as soon as he stops having his recurring nightmare about losing his shoes and having to wear combat boots to the wedding.

Ancient Hindu scriptures declare that "Where women are honored, gods dwell." And Plato in his treatise "Republic" says that there should be complete equality between the sexes.

But it took a long, long time — until the middle of the 19th century — for much progress to be made toward equality. And the 19th amendment, granting women the right to vote, wasn't passed until 1920.

But since then, women's participation in economics and political life has undergone great changes. And if a woman still has to "try harder" from her No. 2 spot, she does have the opportunity of competing for most any job she wishes.

Not only that, a good many women have started their own small businesses successfully. Although none is apt to give big industry any sleepless nights, some may make the financial world sit up and take notice. In fact, one woman flabbergasted a Dun & Bradstreet investigator who asked her the financial rating of her business. She confessed that her capital investment was "just $45!"

Many wise women have succeeded in business because they understood what women want. If Dad earns the dollar, it's Mom who spends it, and services designed to fill family needs are most likely to be popular.

For example some of the successful ideas women have based a business on include marketing artistic candles, African violets, hand - dipped chocolates, scented writing paper, seashell jewelry and art objects.

One expectant mother started a profitable business making attractive drawstring maternity aprons. Another woman, the wife of a professional man, realized how many men did, or would like to, take their families with them when they went to scientific meetings abroad. So, she launched a career renting European villas to American families.

Another unusual enterprise is a school for housewives founded by three California women. Other businesses that fill service needs are child care centers for working mothers, or wedding bureaus that handle all the details of bridal planning, or party catering.

One firm, which handles conventions in big cities, provides sight - seeing tours for children. Their motto is "You take the holiday, we take the kids."

If you are interested in starting a business, you'll find a wealth of material in libraries on such subjects as financiing, licenses, packaging, record - keeping, taxes, insurance and government regulations. Then all you need is a good idea and an indulgent husband.

A MAN'S WORLD?

Try this puzzler on yourself:

A father and son were in an auto wreck. The father was killed and the son was rushed to a hospital for emergency surgery. The attending surgeon looked at the boy and said, "I can't operate; that's my son."

How could this be?

No, there aren't any hidden factors, such as adoption. The boy was the natural son of both the dead man and the surgeon.

This story was told at the recent American Political Science Association convention in Los Agneles where it stumped most people, reports Science Service — men and women, liberals and conservatives alike.

The explanation, of course, is that the surgeon was the boy's mother.

The story was concocted to illustrate just how pervasive "male chauvinism" or antifemale prejudice is in our society, infecting even women themselves.

It may be wondered, however, whether the failure of most people to guess the answer is due to male chauvinism or to the fact that there just aren't many women surgeons around.

Yet female militants would argue that the fact that there aren't many women surgeons around is still due to male chauvinism, which teaches children that little boys grow up to be surgeons and little girls become nurses.

So the next time Ben Casey asks for the scalpel, girls, let him have it.

A well - dressed gentleman entered a roadside cafe and ordered a cup of coffee. The waitress served it in a thick, heavy cup.

"Where is the saucer?" demanded the man.

"We don't use saucers here," snapped the waitress haughtily. "The trade we serve drink out of cups."

H.L. Hunt Says

BLACK SILENT MAJORITY

A call to patriotism has been sounded by the National Black Silent Majority Committee and every Negro leader in the country ought to give it serious consideration. The message of its newly announced crusade is to "speak out against crime and black radical agitation and to support police efforts to maintain security and safe streets in black communities."

The committee's national director, Clary Claiborne, said his group would pick up the bills for Negro business leaders who make a tour of cities with more than a 30 per cent black population. He said the tours would take more than 18 months and cost around $1,000,000. The purpose of the tours will be to take a pro-police stance.

Mr. Claiborne said that 30 policemen have been killed on duty this year and that "someone has to start a movement toward tangible, visible support for law and order on a national scale".

The National Black Silent Majority Committee is headquartered in Washington, D.C., and the crusade tours are slated to start in May, according to a spokesman.

It is heartening to see this group swing into action alongside other patriotic groups. Perhaps the real majority of people in this country, regardless of color of skin, have been silent too long. They need to be heard above the clamor of the radical and lawless groups. Mr. Claiborne's committee of 8,500 dues-paying members could rekindle hope and help restore common sense as it moves toward "tangible, visible support for law and order on a nationwide scale". HLH.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

New Dramatic Twist: World's Left-Wing Labor Chiefs See Hoffa as Powerful Ally.

WASHINGTON: Because the prize is priceless and the power awesome, the momentary silence from Jimmy (The Riddle) Hoffa's prison cell is head-splitting. Throughout the nation, which I've just criss-crossed, and everywhere in the free world, labor leaders -- and especially left wingers who see Hoffa as potentially the most powerful ally they can find -- are listening hard for signals from the bantam inmate of the Lewisburg Penitentiary.

If Hoffa retains the presidency of the Teamsters, world's largest union, he will again concentrate power in the brotherhood's marble halls here. Thus he would become the balance of power in a national and international struggle now whirling angrily behind the scenes between pro-Soviet and American labor leaders for philosophical influence over the world's proletariat.

For the moment this world duel must be taken for granted here. Hoffa's coalition with the left-wing Pacific Coast longshoremen (who are "stepping up" their Free Hoffa petition campaign) and his charismatic influence with strong extremist British transportation unionists should not be doubted.

With Jim Hoffa in control of America's road transport system and intra-city trucking of cargoes from the docks of the nation's harbors, he and his friends abroad could become world powers. They could, if they would, shake the economy of nations.

Much of Britain's economic miseries can be traced to waterfront transport difficulties and strikes, it was explai * * to me recently by former Prime Minister Harold Wilson -- who, as an official Socialist, is not inclined to conjure wraith-like proletarian conspiracies

So the election of an International Brotherhood of Teamsters president the week of July 5 is not just another poll of union delegates. It is of global significance.

Not only would Jim Hoffa's reelection affect the world balance of labor power in that intricate sector which unfortunately so few observe except when there are such cataclysmic labor upheavals as that which actually toppled the late Gen. de Gaulle, but the balance in America would be shifted inside labor. Hoffa would work closely with the United Auto Workers (UAW) and -- though it has gone unnoted -- this has been corroborated by the call of UAW President Leonard Woodcock for Hoffa's freedom.

But those who are Hoffa-watchers are concentrating too closely on Lewisburg Penitentiary. They should switch to Butte, Montana. There on June 14, some three weeks before the opening of the Teamsters' convention, one Ed Grady Partin will stand trial in the federal court on criminal anti-trust charges.

Ed Partin is a mighty rough Teamster leader from Baton Rouge, La. As chief of Teamsters Local 5 there, he controls trucking, ware houses and the general movement of what it takes to build anything from a squirrel cage to a $150 million refinery.

Ed Partin has thrown his weight around -- and this is considerable. He's quite a figure in Louisiana. The Justice Dept. believes he's too much a figure and is trying to cut him down. The charges are very serious. He could go to prison for a longer time than that to which his testimony back in the '60s sent the Teamsters general president to Lewisburg.

Since Partin is so notorious in and around Louisiana he was granted a change of venue to Butte. Thus two developments are unloosed. Anything can happen during the Partin trial. Jimmy Hoffa swears Partin lied during the jury tampering trial before Judge Frank Wilson in Chattanooga. And some of Hoffa's friends claim that Partin -- whose testimony did such damage to Hoffa -- has recanted and they have it in writing. Partin rejects the story. Says he never lied. But anything can happen in the Butte trial. Watch it.

Partin could respond to the prosecution or his own attorneys in such a manner that Hoffa could fashion new and successful pleas for release.

Second: If Partin could get a change of venue, why can't Hoffa? And that's just what he now is seeking -- a change of venue on his appeal from Judge Wilson in Chattanooga to another federal bench elsewhere in the land. And those who did not sit through the horrendous trial of Hoffa as did Judge Wilson -- day after day, sleepless night after night -- might feel differently about Hoffa and grant him a retrial.

So not all the decisions will be made by the Teamsters International Executive Board as they meet here in Washington. They want Jimmy to tell them whether he's running -- in writing. This might be difficult since a prison inmate, even Jim Hoffa, can't conduct business from his cell. And his mail is limited and spot-checked.

Hoffa wants desperately to run. Especially since he has a powerful majority of the delegates from the big states; Illinois, New Jersey, New York and New England, just to mention a few.

This is not just the saga of Jimmy the Riddle. It's the story of the making, or unmaking, of a world power.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- Stephen Sachs, the former U. S. attorney who investigated some of the biggest nabobs on Capitol Hill, has acknowledged behind closed doors that he freely subpoenaed the telephone records of Members of Congress.

His grand jury investigations in Baltimore involved such headline figures as ex-Speaker John McCormack, House Majority Leader Hale Boggs, Sen. Russell Long, D-La., Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., ex-Rep. Arnold Olsen, D-Mont., ex-Rep. James Morrison, D-La., and ex-Sen. Dan Brewster, D-Md.

Of the lot, the grand jury indicted only Brewster on bribery charges that were later dismissed. But Sachs's hot breath on the backs of some prominent congressional necks has not endeared him to the powers on Capitol Hill.

Now a practising attorney in Baltimore, Sachs was hauled behind closed doors by the House Administration Committee to determine whether congressional rights had been violated.

"You have subpoenaed Congressmen's telephone records. Is that right?" demanded Chairman Wayne Hays, D-Ohio.

"Yes, sir," said Sachs.

"Did they know they were being subpoenaed?" pressed Hays. "Did the Congressmen know?"

"I doubt it very much," said Sachs. "Put it this way, I don't believe in any case they were informed officially."

FISHING EXPEDITIONS?

"Did you ever have any knowledge of any subpoenas being issued for congressional telephone records where there was no allegation or suggestion of wrongdoing, just what a layman might call a fishing expedition?" asked the chairman.

"No, sir ..." replied Sachs. "In no case was any subpoena issued by my office idly or maliciously or for any other reason than for good cause."

"You and other district attorneys," snorted Hays, "can subpoena almost any record of a Congressman, certainly their telephone records, which you have done. If I want to subpoena your records ... or if I want a list of (State Department) phone calls, there is no way on God's earth I can do it, because the executive branch stands on executive privilege and refuses to surrender ...

"The legislative branch is at considerable disadvantage under the (separation -of - powers) theory when our records can be subpoenaed willy-nilly, but we cannot get our hands on any records we want ..."

"In my firm judgment," Sachs replied, "the records of the phone company are the records of the phone company and not the records of the Congress."

But Hays would not be put off.

"The thing that bothers me," he snorted, "is that you can go in and grab a Member's records, and he may not know about it for six months or six years or maybe never."

"That is right," agreed Sachs.

SPECIAL TREATMENT

"Do you feel from your vast experience in the Justice Department," interrupted Rep. Sam Devine, R-Ohio, "that Members of Congress are entitled to any treatment any different from any ordinary citizen in connection with their business telephone or home telephone records?"

"No, Congressman," said Sachs, "quite frankly I do not."

He pointed out that the corruption statutes include Members of Congress as "public officials."

"It is the Congress which has made Members of the Congress amenable to the Criminal Code," he said.

"How can you in Baltimore issue a subpoena," demanded Rep. William Dickinson, R-Ala., "to the (telephone) company of the District of Columbia?"

"Because in a criminal case there is nationwide service of process..." explained Sachs. "The U.S. attorney or a grand jury can issued subpoenas to any place in the United States."

"What if you wanted the records of the White House?" asked Dickinson. "Can you get them from the telephone company by just subpoenaeing them?"

"I never tried," said the former U.S. attorney. "I don't know."

Grumped Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa: "I am impressed with the obvious unfairness that prevails between a Member of Congress and the Executive ... It seems to me we do not have a co-equal situation when the executive has certain powers and rights in carrying out their msision, and we in Congress do not."

Headlines and Footnotes

WALLACE IMPACT -- Labor leaders are privately worried over the continuing popularity of George Wallace, the Dixie demagogue, among union members. Their private polls show Wallace is still the first presidential choice of one out of every five unionists. The machinists' polls, for example, show that the Democratic front runner, Sen. Ed Muskie, outpolls President Nixon and Wallace together by almost three to two. Such poor suppert from rank -and -file union members would be disastrous for the Democrats in 1972.

SIHOANOUK'S LETTER -- Prince Sihanouk, the deposed Cambodian ruler and Peking puppet, has managed to smuggle a letter to his mother, who is held a virtual prisoner in her villa in Phnom Penh. She is not allowed to receive mail from him, but she has confided to intimates that at least one letter has reached her. The Queen Mother's associates say Sihanouk promised in the letter to give up politics, come home and take care of her as soon as he could arrange it.

Ann Landers

Kissing with Braces Can Cause Quite an Entanglement

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know how it is up North, but in Alabama it is considered very bad manners to blow one's nose in public. I'm sure you are aware that Southerners are noted for their couth and refinement.

I was reared to be a lady. I did not hear the sound of nose-blowing until I was in high school. (It was a rude boy who had moved to Prattville from Illinois.) Now it seems that whereever I go I hear people go "honk, honk, honk" --- like a pack of geese.

I know there are times when one must wipe his nose but it seems to me that when a person needs to blow, he can excuse himself. Expecially in a restaurant. I don't know of a single decent eating place in this country that doesn't have a bathroom where a person could go to perform this delicate act. Print his letter, please, Ann. Perhaps public nose-blowers don't know how they appear to refined, well-reared folks. --- Gone With The Wind

Dear Gone: I agree that people ought not to go "honk, honk" in dining rooms, but muted blow-wipe, if done inobtrusively should not undo you so completely. Your excessive sensitivity to nose-blowing suggests that perhaps your mother was scared by a handkerchief.

Dear Ann: I'd like to comment on the woman who said she was ready to resign from the human race because so many men had made passes at her for no eartly reason. She described herself as "plain, overweight, a home-loving type, who had never given any man an iota of encouragement." Yet the delivery boy made eyes at her, the TV-repair man kissed her on the back of the neck and the minister grabbed her in the middle of a political conversation.

I know the type so well. I have danced with them at the Club and noticed that they move in a most provocative fashion. I have caught their glances in a crowded room. They ask for a light at dinner parties -- and hold my hand steady a moment too long. Their little quips are often tripleedged, and they look so innocent -- as if they don't know what they are saying. These women are indeed sending out coded messages, as you suggested. Men who wish to break the code know how to do so. Those who are not interested simply pretend not to get the signals. So you were right again, as usual. I hope "Mrs. Ready To Resign" got YOUR Message. --- R.D.F.

Dear R.: If she didn't get mine, I'm sure she got yours. It came through loud and clear. Thanks for improving on my original statement.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 15-year-old girl and am very mature for my age. I could pass for 17 both physically and mentally. The problem is I wear braces on my teeth. The boy I like a lot also wears braces. I know he wants to kiss me, and I want to let him, but I once read in your column about two kids who wore braces. They kissed and the braces got hooked together and it was very embarassing.

Any advice on how kids with braces should kiss? --- Donna

Dear Donna: Carefully.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Sex -- Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Woman Attempting to Break Series of World Records

LONDON (AP) — British air ace Sheila Scott flew off today in a 34,000-mile attempt to break a series of world records as a human guinea pig for the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The flight will take her around the world 1½ times. She said her wardrobe ranges from a bikini for the tropics to three layers of clothing under an orange survival suit for polar flying.

Miss Scott, 43, hopes to become the first pilot to fly from equator to equator over the North Pole in a light plane.

The propeller plane was loaded with black boxes to register and radio heartbeat, body temperature and other data direct to NASA continuously during the flight.

Soon after takeoff for Benghazi and Nai robi the plan was linked to the American satellite Nimbus so it could relay all of the pilot's physical reactions to a ground station in Fairbanks, Alaska, for transmission to NASA's computer center in Maryland.

"I'm not sure I want everyone to know how scared I am," Miss Scott said before takeoff. "I'm very pleased that they have given this opportunity to a British woman."

Sheila has a lot at stake, including nearly all the financial load of the flight. She had a joke-card pasted to her instrument panel in front of her: "I must be successful. I owe everybody".

The Piper Aztec, "Mythre," is a successor to her single-engine Pipe Comanche, "Myth Too," in which she flew around the world.

From Nairobi she will turn around and fly to Tromsoe, Norway, for the takeoff across the North Pole.

This part of her trip has been criticized by aviation authorities who say her navigational equipment—a simply gyroscope—is inadequate for the polar flight.

"It's going to be dicey. But I've got to try," Sheila said.

Old Romance Renewed

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A romance which ended with a platonic goodbye kiss some time ago has resumed in earnest and there may be a marriage soon.

The bride-to-be is 76, her beau 79.

Thomas B. Thompson of Augusta, Kan., stepped briskly off a jetliner Friday and into the arms of Emma Haston of San Diego. They had kissed each other goodbye nearly 60 years ago.

"Blaine," she said tenderly as they embraced.

It is a name he'll have to get used to again. For the past 53 years he has been known as Jack, a businessman in Augusta, a small city each of Wichita, Kan.

Mrs. Haston remembered their last kiss as teen-agers.

"I didn't think about marriage," she said, "and Blaine did not have any money to get married on."

But she always remembered the hard working young man who played with the band in Judsonia, their hometown in Arkansas, and who visited with her family whether he had a date with her or not.

He married in 1914 and moved to Kansas where his wife, Ida, died two years ago.

Mrs. Haston married Percy Robertson in 1915 and moved to San Diego where for years they ran a bakery. Robertson died in 1947 and five years later she married the late Arth Haston, a contractor.

"I never thought I'd marry a third time," she said.

Thompson and her former sweetheart exhanged Christmas cards over the years. A note she wrote on one kindled his interest. In 1969 he learned she was a widow and she learned he was a widower.

There were more letters and last September a decision was made.

"I was to dispose of my interests in Kansas and come out here and ask her to marry me," said a beaming Thompson. "I'm here now and I'm going to ask her."

And he thinks he knows what the answer may be, he added. She has made arrangements with her church for a June wedding.

Brock Stopped, Cards Roll On

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Atlanta's George Stone stopped Lou Brock's hitting streak Monday night but paid penance for the deed in a 3-2 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Stone, who halted Brock's streak at 26 games, was unable to get past Jose Cardenal, in the eighth inning.

"I just knew I had to stay after him," said Cardenal, who had been retired three times previously by Stone.

"He got Brock, which made me feel bad, but I knew we had other fellows on the team to pick us up. I think all the time I can hit him, and I'm just happy to win the game."

Cardenal's hit, his seventh game-winning blow of the season, finished out the Cardinals' month of May at 19-6, the hottest pace in the National League.

It also gave the Cardinals a 12-2 record for a spectacular home stand and a 2½-game lead in the NL East heading into a series opening tonight at Pittsburgh.

"I never have followed him well," said Brock in respect to Stone pitches which retired him on strikes twice and on ground balls twice.

"All I can say is the streak was fun while it lasted," added the 30-year-old outfielder, whose streak began April 30 against Montreal.

Stone's master in a pitching duel was 21-year-old left-hander Jerry Reuss, 5-4, who except for the fifth inning kept the Braves in tow with sizzling fast balls.

Run-scoring singles by Henry Aaron and Orlando Cepeda capped a four-hit barrage during the inning and produced a 2-2 tie until Torre doubled and Cardenal singled in the eighth.

Lafayette Repeats

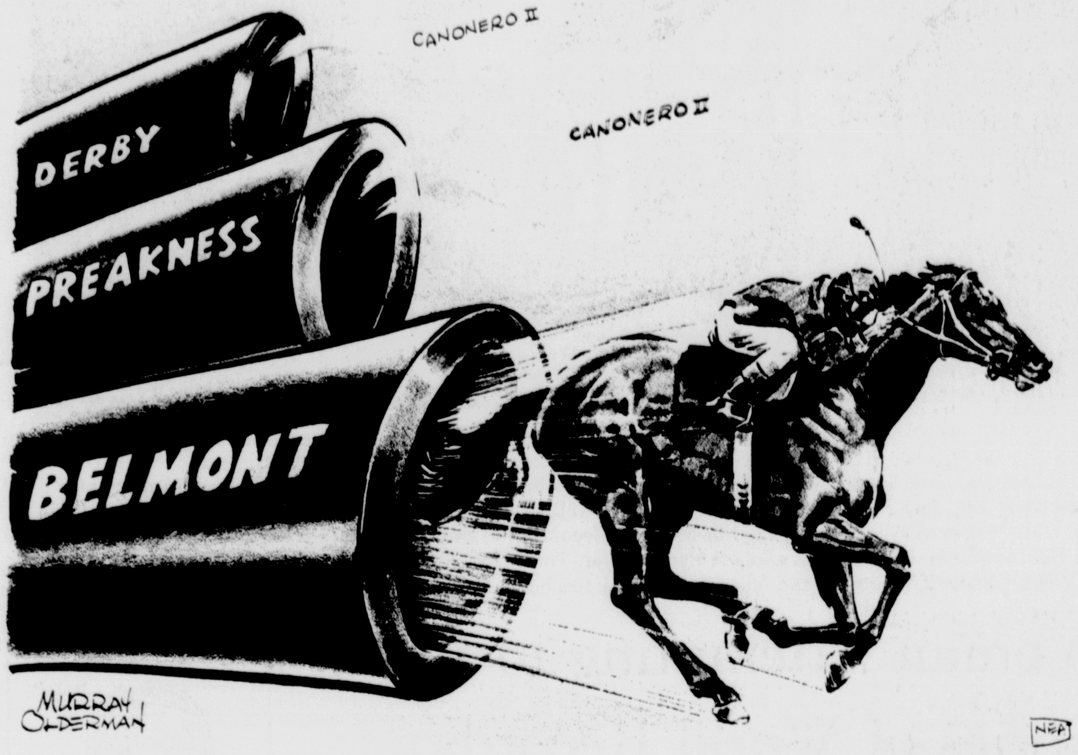
SPRINGFIELD--St. Louis Lafayette became only the fourth team in the 22-year-history of the Missouri State High School baseball tournament to win back to back championships.

The Lancers toppled Joplin Memorial 4-2 Saturday at Meador Park to claim the coveted crown for the second straight year. It was also the third straight year for the St. Louis team to be in the final.

Lafayette has eliminated Sikeston in regional play the past two seasons, 5-0 and 8-3.

The Missouri State Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association selected the All-State teams after Friday's semi-finals. Five Southeast Missourians were honored among the top 20. Two 10 player teams were selected.

FINAL BURST TO GLORY



Bold Reasoning Tops Jersey Derby

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Bold Reasoning won the $134,400 Jersey Derby Monday but his trainer still feels the unbeaten colt isn't ready for the 1½ mile Belmont Stakes.

"Not a chance," said Trainer Nick Gonzales when asked if Bold Reasoning would be supplemented for the June 5 Belmont and a shot at Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner Canonero II.

"He (Bold Reasoning) has just come out of a tough race and he deserves a rest. There isn't a chance we'll put him in the Belmont."

Bold Reasoning, winning his seventh straight race, had no trouble in his first run around two turns and more than a mile as he beat Pass Catcher by half a length in the 1⅛ mile Jersey at Garden State Park.

Ridden by jockey Jacinto Vasquez, Bold Reasoning was never worse than third. He took the lead with one sixteenth to go and outgamed October House Farms Pass Catcher in an exciting stretch duel.

Bold Reasoning went off the even money favorite and returned $4 to those who backed him in a closing day crowd of 40,020.

The son of Boldnesian-Reason To Earn raced the 1⅛ miles in 1:49 3-5 over a track listed as good after an all night rain that lasted into early afternoon. He beat a field of seven at equal weight of 126 pounds.

At Belmont, where 60,147 wagered $6,844,880, Tunex, $10.20, charged down the middle of the stretch and beat Protanto by a fingertip in the $121,600 Metropolitan Handicap.

Divide and Rule, $5, won the Lakeside Handicap at Hollywood where 62,383 bet $5,527,785, a California state record.

Mr. Pow Pow, $5.40, scored in the North Shore Handicap at Arlington Park and Damage Control, $26,80, won the Oakland Handicap at Golden Gate Fields.

Our Cheri Amour, $6.20, and Alma North, $6, won the split divisions of the Open Fire Stakes at Delaware Park and Who Behave, $9, captured the Tomasello Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

150 Enter Atlanta Classic

ATLANTA (AP)--The record field of 150 for the fifth annual Atlanta Golf Classis is complete.

Red Curl and Terry Wilcox led a field of 35 qualifiers for the tournament Monday, sharing medal honors with five-under-par 67s at the Atlanta Country Club.

A field of 112 hopefuls shot for the 35 available positions. It took a par 72 or better to qualify.

Jack Nicklaus, current PGA champion and winner of three tournaments this year, leads the classic field which tees off Thursday. Gary Player also is in the field for the $125,000 event.

A celebrity pro-am gets the action started Wednesday.

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — Gene Whipp of Kettering, Ohio, piloted his 7-litre Hydroplane "Heavy Hauler" to victory Monday in the feature race of the Lake Decatur Memorial Day Water Festival.

Whipp's boat is owned by Lenny Ryder of Elk Grove Village. The victory was worth $500 for Whipp.

Q—How did the prairie schooners receive their name?

A—They were called by that name because at a distance the white awnings that covered the wagons looked like a fleet of sailing ships with all canvas spread.

Miss Everet, from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., defeated Mrs. Mary Ann Eisel Curtis 6-0, 6-3 for the women's singles honors.

Solomon rallied past Zan Guerry, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1, in an allRice University men's singles finals.

Canonero II News

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP)--The name Canonero II is all right for a horse, but not for a child.

Cruz Paredes, a farmer, tried to name his baby boy after the Venezuelan-owned winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness. But a Merida state clerk rejected his request, saying the name wasn't fit for a child.

Paredes than changed his son's name to Gustavo Franklin Paredes, after Gustavo Avila, the jockey who rode Canonero II.

Trainer Juan Arias paraded the winner of the Kentucky Derby and The Preakness around the tree-lined paddock to get him used to his new surroundings under race conditions. The colt showed no nervousness as he walked around with his ears pricked to the applause of the spectators.

"He is a fit horse," said Arias who discounted again that Canonero is bothered by a skin rash and an infected right hind hoof.

Veterinarians who have examined the colt say the rash is "no consequence and is clearing up" and that the infection "is minor and has responded to treatment."

Meantime, owner Pedro Baptista denied a report from Caracas that he had sold Canonero II to an American syndicate for $4 million.

Oklahoma State Signs Joplin Star

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)--Joe Eberhard, a shortstop from Joplin, Mo., has been signed to a Big Eight Letter of intent by Oklahoma State University.

Eberhardt is the fourth player to sign this season with OSU.

ROME (AP) — Joe Frazier, a better gate-attraction as a slugger than a singer, brought his singing group, the Knockouts, here to show the Italians that his voice is as powerful as his punches.

Frazier, undefeated world heavyweight champion who has drawn less crowds than expected in his singing tour of Europe, said Monday that singing is no less demanding than boxing.

"I burn more energy singing than boxing," he said. "That's how I keep my weight down."

NEW TOUCH

CHICAGO (AP) — Fountains and plazas beside downtown skyscrapers are a new architectural touch in open-city planning.

When the First National Bank of Chicago completes its plaza between Dearborn and Clark Streets along Monroe where the former bank building stood, a dramatic fountain spouting a 30-inch square column of water 18 feet high will be turned on in 1972, beautifying the area beside its new 60-story building.

Robertson H. Short Jr., vice-president in charge of the bank building, said the "water column" will be inside a 45-foot square pool. He said the column idea has only been used in one other fountain, in Dallas, but it is not as large as that planned for the First National.

Nine adjacent columns of water created by a large number of water jets, instead of a loose spray, will form what appears to be a solid square column of water.

Three wind gauges will control the height of the column, reducing pedestrian spraying by strong gusts of wind.

Durocher Admits

PITTSBURGH (AP)- Leo Durocher won't deny that his days as manager of the Chicago Cubs may be numbered.

"I've been in this game a long time," he said Monday after the Cubs lost 6-0 to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"There is no manager who is not vulnerable. And when the time comes—today, tomorrow, next week or next year—when it happens, am I going to be a baby about something like that?

"That's a lot of bull.

"If anybody wants to know what's going to happen, have him call Mr. Wrigley the team owner or Mr. Holland team vice president."

The Cubs have now lost 10 of their last 13 games, have been shut out two games straight by the Pirates—Monday by Steve Blass who scattered five hits—and are hurting because of injuries and a weak bullpen which has picked up only one save all season.

"You put the eight best men on the field," said the 64-year-old Durocher, in his sixth year with the Cubs. "You can't go out and pick up the ball for them.

"I know one thing. They're trying, giving 100 per cent. That's all I ask of anybody. There's no blame to put on anyone."

Nicklaus, Caponi Set Golf Figures

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Amateur golfers across the nation have targets of par and one under par to shoot at for competition concluding June 14 in the National Golf Day charity.

Those standards were set Monday by burly PGA Champion Jack Nicklaus and Women's Open Queen Donna Caponi in a challenge to Warson Country Club's sprawling course.

Nicklaus, admittedly rusty after a three-week layoff from the golf tour, scrambled back over the final nine holes to shoot 36-36—72 and beat Englishman Tony Jacklin's 33-41— 74.

Miss Caponi, whose putting was picturesque, compiled a 3439—73 in bettering the 40-38—78 round turned in by ladies' PGA Champion Shirley Englehorn.

Nicklaus' round was one over par 35-36—71 for Warson's 7,200-yard course, while Miss Caponi's round from shortened women's tees matched ladies' par of 36-37—73.

Amateurs, in order to qualify for key rings and accolades, must fire under the scores with the aid of their handicaps.

"I hope I can play myself into shape before the U.S. Open," said Nicklaus, who missed a 14-inch putt at No. 10 on Monday before capitalizing on a sour Jacklin streak.

Jacklin was four up beginning No. 11 but double bogeyed the hole as well as No. 12 while Nicklaus put together a birdie and par.

At No. 15, as Jacklin's tee shots continued to stray off course, Nicklaus went two up with another birdie and coasted to the finish.

Nicklaus' last competition was at the Byron Nelson Golf Classic in Dallas three weeks ago. The blond blaster plans to play in the Atlanta Golf Classic this week before appearing in exhibitions prior to the June 17-20 open in Ardmore, Pa.

"I never had such a putting round," said the pert Miss Caponi, whose round included six birdies, three bogeys and two double bogeys.

Miss Caponi shot into a water hazard at No. 12 and sailed her tee shot into a tree at No. 13 for the two-over-par holes.

But she was never seriously challenged after Miss Englehorn double bogeyed the second hole and made the turn six strokes behind.

Miss Caponi's round included a drive on the par three, 200-yard third hole to within 13 inches of the cup. She sank putts of 15, 12, 16 and eight feet.

The Warson course, playing 6,500 yards for women off shortened tees, is the site for Sept. 16-18 Ryder Cup matches between the United States and Britain.

Both Nicklaus and Jacklin expect to return. "It will be a fine course for it," Nicklaus said.

Can More Campus Tragedies Be Averted?

THE REPORT OF THE RESIDENT'S COMMISSION ON CAMPUS UNREST
William C. Scranton, Chairman
(A Discus Book M105/ $1.95/540pp.)

Can more campus tragedies be averted? It was this pressing question that prompted President Nixon, in the wake of the killings at Kent State University and Jackson State College to appoint a Commission, headed by William W. Scranton, to investigate the causes of campus violence.

Here is the controversial report of that Commission, which met for the first time on June 25, 1970, and during the next three months conducted 13 days of public hearings in Washington, D.C.; Los Angeles, California; Jackson, Mississippi; and Kent, Ohio; and met 15 times in executive session. The Discus paperback edition, to be published by Avon on May 20th, includes the complete text and photographs of the Commission Report.

The Report explores the history and causes of campus unrest and contains recommendations for the President, the Government, for law enforcement agencies, for the university, the students, and the public at large.

The Commission recognizes campus unrest as a "fact of life," an "expression of intellectual restlessness" which "prompts the search for truth." Nevertheless, the Report states, "When campus unrest takes the form of violence and disruptive protest, it must be met with firm and just response," and the Commission includes recommendations for what those responses should be in its Report.

THE REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT'S COMMISSION ON CAMPUS UNREST embodies an urgent plea for reconciliation among Americans. In an opening, "Note to the American People" the Report urges, Violence must end.

Understanding must be renewed.

All Americans must come to see each other not as symbols or stereotypes but as human beings.

On a hopeful note, the Report observes, "We share the impatience of those who call for change. We believe there is still time and opportunity to achieve change. We believe we can still fulfill our shared national commitment to peace, justice, decency, equality and the celebration of human life....We must start. All of us....Our recommendations are directed toward this end."

To The Editor
Sikeston Daily Standard
Sikeston, Missouri
Dear Editor,

One of the saddest mistakes our country has been making for the last 26 years has been the trading with Communist countries. They are our enemies! We have continued trading with them and the only thing we have received in return are: THE BERLIN WAR, MISSALS IN CUBA, THE CONQUEST OF CHINA, ARMS BUILDUP, VIETNAM WAR, MIDDLE EAST UNREST, plus countless other "pain in the necks".

Recently THE STATE DEPARTMENT has cancelled trading with Rhodesia on the grounds that "Rhodesia oppresses its Blacks by a white regime. We were trading with Rhodesia, Chromiun Ore which is vital for the production of jet aircraft engines. Now we are buying the same product from Russia at $65 a ton, twice the price paid to Rhodesia! Unfortunately Rhodesia now sells its supply of the precious ore to Russia where we bought it from.

I recommend that all good citizens reading this letter write to their Representative Bill Burlison at Washington, D.C. at 1313 Longsworth Bldg., and tell him to support H.R. 5445 a bill introducted by Jim Collins (DEM.-TEX.) which would restore trade to Rhodesia.

Everyone should do their part!

Sincerely,
Timothy P. O'Herin

Symington to Call for Secret Session on Laos

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington says he will call for a secret Senate session so members can learn the full story behind "the long and tragic war" in Laos.

The Missouri Democrat announced his intentions in a speech Friday night to the Harvard Faculty Club.

After a secret session Dec. 15, 1969, the Senate voted 80 to 9 to prohibit the use of U.S. ground combat troops in Laos or Thailand.

Any senator can demand and obtain a secret session if seconded by another senator, a Senate official said.

Before the Senate appropriates any more money for Laos operations, Symington said, senators should be informed about "additional military developments" in that Southeast Asian nation.

He said a report by two Foreign Relations Committee staffers, describing Central Intelligence Agency funding of 4,800 Thai troops fighting in northern Laos, "shows conclusively that the people, as well as most of their congressional representatives, have little or no knowledge of the long and tragic war being conducted in that country; and therefore even less knowledge of the amount of money involved."

Symington, who serves on the Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees, said both Congress and the administration have lost control of the defense budget.

The dividend is payable June 30 to stockholders of record June 11.

The board also declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.20 per share on preferred stock payable June 30 to stockholders of record June 11.

Five Injured On Highways

Five were injured in three traffic mishaps in the six-county Bootheel over the Memorial Day holiday weekend.

At 5:10 p.m. Saturday on highway 51 near the north city limits of Puxico, a 1966 Ford going south, driven by Paul W. Hoefler, 28, of St. Louis, went out of control on a curve, the highway patrol said, and overturned.

The driver sustained cuts and bruises and was taken to Lucy Lee hospital in Poplar Bluff. He was charged with careless driving.

At 8:25 p.m. Saturday on route 153 in Gideon, a 1970 Ford pickup truck traveling north, driven by Martin Weaver, 35, of Peach Orchard, ran off the road, hit a utility pole, a house, and two parked cars, the patrol said.

Weaver sustained a neck injury and was taken to Dunklin county Memorial hospital in Kennett.

The house and two cars hit by Weaver are owned by Vernon Stein of Gideon.

Two and a half miles east of Charleston at 2:52 p.m. Monday on highway 62, a 1959 Chevrolet truck going east, driven by Ray Rodgers, 18, of Charleston, was turning left, the patrol said, and was struck in the rear by an eastbound 1971 GMC pickup driven by Ernest J. Chaney Jr., 42, of Bastrop, Miss.

Rodgers was charged with failure to signal.

Dwight Morris, 19, of Charleston, a passenger in the Chevrolet, sustained a cut finger. Another passenger in the Chevrolet, Orlando Cratt, 32, of Charleston, had minor injuries.

Edgar McAlexander, 54, of Greenville, Miss., a passenger in the GMC, sustained minor injuries.

Fire Damages Residence

EAST PRAIRIE -- The home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reeves was damaged by fire at 12:15 a.m. Wednesday and Fire Chief Kenneth Carter said that the entire home was heavily damaged by smoke.

According to Mrs. Reeves, she was staying the night at the Sikeston Hospital with her granddaughter, and her husband was at the home alone. He woke up smelling smoke and went to call the fire department; the phone was out of order so he drove to a neighbor.s home and made the call.

Mr. an Mrs. Reeves moved into the home, 2½ miles southeast of East Prairie, about a year ago and had done remodeling. It was the former home of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Adkisson.

Democrats' Cornucopia

'72 Losers Paw Paths of Gold

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) For the Democratic party, 1971 is unique. Never before have so many presidential candidates with so little hold on the voters been able to get so much early money for traveling and organizing on an ambitious scale.

Sen. Birch Bayh shows a bare one per cent Democratic support in a national poll, yet he has the biggest political staff of all, travels widely, sends roses and throws champagne breakfasts. He won't say, but he could be spending upwards of $750,000 this year.

Iowa's Sen. Harold Hughes, another member of the one per cent club, doesn't travel as often as young Mr. Roller Skates from Indiana. But he does get about, and he's enlarging his political operation.

Hawkish Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington isn't taken too seriously as a prospect, except maybe in the South and in limited northern quarters. That doesn't seem to prevent him from moving around constantly. He has had five visits cross-continent to California. The senator is riding on a fat two per cent poll showing.

With his five per cent and his declared candidacy, Sen. George McGovern is a little more plausible. It's still remarkable, though, that he can find the money to fuel his very high-paced 1971 effort.

Now, it doesn't violate objectivity to say most of these men are bound to be losers in 1972. Indeed, most won't get very far at all. So, how come some Democratic money types are financing a bunch of losers in such high style?

A high proportion of these angels can be found among New York and California liberals. They want candidates with a strong commitment against the Vietnam war. They want men who will knock wire-tapping and call, every hour on the hour, for the firing of J. Edgar Hoover.

McGovern gets those who like his "I was first against the war." He also runs daily against J. Edgar. The fat cats who want the deep voice look to Harold Hughes, who has the organ tones, the big chest measurements for a commanding presidential figure, and a little of the whiff of a believable dark horse about him.

As the junior dragon who slew the Supreme Court nomination of southerners G. Harrold Carswell and Clement Haynsworth, Birch Bayh of Indiana makes it with people who are grateful or who like his gymnasium energy.

Given the free-wheeling nature of the Democratic party, it is wholly predictable that the restless Left should be casting about for someone other than either Old Face Hubert Humphrey or Old Face's 1968 running mate, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine.

And, certainly, at least one of the low percentile candidates is going to be backed all the way into the Democratic convention next July. The vigorous Left is never without a horse.

Nevertheless, the party faces the serious question whether liberals' financial indulgence in the present variety of choices is not a luxury which Democrats challenging President Nixon in 1972 can ill afford.

Everybody has heard by now that it is going to cost an individual candidate at least $10 million to $12 million to campaign full-scale up through the nominating convention. To get the nominee to voting day in November may take two or three times that much.

The money wells being tapped today are not ever-flowing. Some of them could run dry next year just when the Democrats need them most. And with the party still necktied by a $9.3 million debt from 1968, its credit wouldn't buy lunchtime hamburgers for a campaign staff.

The Democrats' long spring-training roster of candidates surely support reformers' hopes for open-party competition. Trouble is, it's so open the money is running out at both ends. The unprecedented outlays for losers by fat cats in fantasyland are simply unbelievable.

Car Hits Child Near School

CHARLESTON-- Sarah Burke, 15, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Burke was struck by a 1965 Ford sedan driven by Miss Dolly Rogers, 16, of Wyatt May 21 at 3:20 p.m., in front of the Warren E. Hearnes School on Plant Street.

Sarah had gotten out of a car to cross the street to get into another car when she apparently stepped in front of the oncoming car. She sustained bruises and scratches of the face and two front teeth were knocked out. She received treatment in the emergency room at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston where she remained overnight and was released.

Two Arrests For Following Too Closely

CHARLESTON -- An accident involving two cars and one pickup truck occurred Monday, May 24 at 3:30 p.m., on East Marshall street.

Police said Archibald O'Hara, 310 West Commercial St., driving a 1963 Oldsmobile traveling west on East Marshall, slowed down and was struck in the rear by a 1968 Chevrolet pickup driven by Claud Housman, 908 West Marshall St.

Michael Hart, of Charleston, driving a 1966 Ford sedan also traveling west hit the Housman truck in the rear. No one was hurt.

According to police Housman and Hart were given citations for following too closely.

'Good Old Days' Weren't That Good

The writer is magistrate and probate judge of Callaway County, Missouri.

By Hugh P. Williamson

FULTON, Mo. — More and more, as social pressures increase, and to escape from present realities which are often unpleasant, people tend to cast their minds back into a past which they picture as being always bathed in sunlight, idyllic, a time when perfect happiness was unfailing.

These nostalgic flights of imagination back to a condition which never existed may give some pleasure, which is good, but I believe that they also greatly increase our dissatisfaction with the present, and that the unrest which results far outwiighs the satisfactions. It is to give a realistic account of the past that these observations are made, in the hope of increasing our contentment with the present.

Let us consider the area of health. In 1911, when statistics were first kept, the average length of life in the U. S. was 52 years. In 1967 it was 70 years. In 1911, out of every 1,000 babies born, 95 died before they reached the age of 1 year. In 1969, only 21 in every 1,000 died. In 1911, for every 10,000 babies who were born, 77 mothers died in childbirth. In 1969 this figure was 1.9.

The farther back we go in time the shorter the span of life becomes, the greater the increase in infant and in mother mortality. The old braveyards in this country are filled with gravestones which tell the sad story of a young woman who died in childbirth, with her child. And the fine gains that have been made in this area increase each year. Surely these trends are very splendid things.

People a hundred years ago, and less, were subject to recurrent plagues which swept away thousands. Among these were malaria, typhoid fever, yellow fever, pneumonia, smallpox and tuberculosis, not to mention the childhood diseases such as measles, croup, whooping cough and scarlet fever. Of these, tuberculosis was probably greatest and most constant killer. There were few families one or more of whose members did not have this dread disease.

And practically all of these diseases were incurable because medical science, until 50 years ago was comparatively powerless. Indeed, the sick person who did not fall into the hands of a doctor probably had a better chance of living than one who did. In those times there were no hospitals, no facilities whatever for the care of the sick or women in childbirth. As the above statistics show, these conditions have wholly changed, and all for the better, much, much better.

Stiffling Boredom

If a person living today could be transported back 75 or 100 years he would be bored to extinction. A large part of the population was rural, all transportation was by horse-drawn vehicles, all roads were dirt and were largely untended.. Only a few homes had any books, or reading material of any kind, since rural free delivery of mail did not begin until 1896. There was literally no recreation except hunting and fishing for men and boys, when there was time for it, which was very seldom.

The most thrilling event in the lives of these people was an occasional trip to the nearest town, usually on Saturday afternoons. And this, by modern standards, was extremely tame and had many drawbacks. The hundreds of horses which crowded the street of towns and cities in this country kept the street littered.

And riding in a horse-drawn vehicle was not exactly a bed of roses. In the summer there was little protection from the intense heat and choking dust, or from the intense cold of winter and the teeth-rattling jolts caused by frozen ruts.

And such travel was slow. This writer estimates that he sat in a buggy for at least 1,200 hours going from his home in the country to high school five miles away for a 4-year period. A waste of time and very boring . Todaythe people who live on our old farm make the same trip in seven or eight minutes, warm in winter and cool in summer, over a hard, smooth road.

And there was the further fact that in thousands of instances horses were underfed, over-worked and generally terribly abused. All of this happily has passed away, gone with the manure, the flies and the abominations they caused. These are wonderful improvements over "the good old days."

But there was little time for relaxation or pleasure, even if there had been means available for it. All work was done by hand because there were no machines. The farm workday began before daylight in the morning and continued until after dark. And the labor was exhausting, taking a great toll of physical and emotional energy. The physical hand-to-hand struggle of the farmer and laborer with his environment was never-ending except in the most severe winter weather. Today the farm is a machine operator, usually working only eight or nine hours a day.

Scant Education

Education, with all of the avenues of pleasure which it opens to people, was but scant. Into the one-room country schools of this nation there would crowd 40 to 50 children ranging in age from 5 or 6 to 20. The building was always crowded to the point of suffocation. The teacher faced an impossible task of trying to hold sufficient classes to give all of these pupils some learning. Usually very little was imparted. And the education thus received was all that the great majority of pupils ever got, since few of them went any farther.

Today there are very few children who do not receive at least a high school education, and each year millions of others enter the colleges and universities of our country. A very great gain indeed in this area.

Highway 25 Work May Be Let in 1971

MALDEN — Contracts to resurface Highway 25 from south of Dexter to White Oak are expected to be let late this year, according to W. H. Shaw, Chief Engineer, Missouri State Highway Department, Division 10, Sikeston.

The Chief Engineer spoke to the Rotary Club Tuesday at noon and presented a program on the Inter City, Inter Regional highway program which is Missouri's proposed new 12-year highway program. He also answered questions about the program and in particular about Highway 25, however, he did not go into detail about Highway 25 because he will appear before a meeting of the Malden Chamber of Commerce in June and will discuss Highway 25 in detail at that time.

Although the contracts calling for the resurfacing and shoulder work along Highwav 25 should be let later in the year, we hope the funds will be available for the job next year, he stated.

Highway 25 is still in the departments 5-year plan but if the new 12-year highway program is passed it will mean more improvements. According to a map shown during the program, Highway 53 and 25 would be improved to a modern 2-lane roadway in the 12-year period and possibly a 4-lane within the next 12 years.

The new program includes about 1850 miles of divided highways; about 350 miles of ultimate four - lane highways, with two lanes during the program and right of way purchased for four lanes where new construction is required.

Twelve major river and lake crossings (bridges) are also included along with improvement of roads within the St. Louis and Kansas City areas.

Financing of the new program could be done with a two-cents -a -gallon hike in the motor vehicle fuel tax; revised registration fees to a flat $25 per car and increases in registration and license fees and a bond issue of $460 million. The bond issue would allow us to do the job quicker and would assure the work being done, he stated.

Missouri has 32,000 miles of highways which cost about $70 million annually to maintain. Sixty per cent of the system was built 30 years ago. Cost of building roads has skyrocketed, according to the speaker. between 1959 and 1970 costs have gone up 67%. We now operate on a fixed financial basis which gives us only money to maintain our roads and hardly nothing for needed improvements.

"We need the tax increase and bond issue together to get the job done in 12 years," Shaw said. We are not keeping up with the demands of traffic with the present level of financing. Cost of the new 12-year program would cost the average motorist about six cents a day.

TRADITION AND CHANGE IN AFRICAN TRIBAL LIFE
by Colin M. Turnbull
(A Camelot Book ZN97/.95/224pp.)

There is no such place as Africa and no such person as an African. So, paradoxically, noted anthropologist Colin M. Turnbull opens his Camelot book, TRADITION AND CHANGE IN AFRICAN TRIBAL LIFE.

The continent that we call Africa, explains the author, is divided into many different nations, some separated by thousands of miles. Each nation is again divided into tribal areas, nearly all of which speak a different language, live a different way of life, and believe in a different form of religion. Furthermore, whereas within Europe there is a free exchange of ideas between the people of various countries, in Africa people living in one part of the country are unlikely even to have heard about the people living in other parts of the vast continent. "So," observes the author, "saying that someone is an African does not tell us very much!"

To "get rid of those old misunderstandings about tribal ways... and understand better the great changes that are taking place in Africa today," to help the reader see how tribal Africans look at the world, Dr. Turnbull examines the life styles of four very different tribes. Through his text and abundant photographs, the author traces the widening circles of life from the self-centered infant to the independent young person, then to the adult who takes responsibility for others, and finally the wise old man, concerned with morality and religion.

Weather Man Cooperates for Lake Reopening

CRUMP, Mo. (AP)-The weather and the State Conservation Commission were working together today for fishermen in southeastern Missouri.

Lake Girardeau, which was closed two years ago for a draw-down of water, was re-opened for fishing this morning by the conservation agency. Heavy rainfall early in the day was expected to boost the first-day catch.

The lake was closed to allow removal of plant growth. It was then restocked with 28,000 catfish, more than 800 bass, 40,000 red ear and 37,000 blue gill.

A spokesman for the conservation commission said today that a recent check of the restocked fish in Lake Girardeau show they have grown considerably.

Merry Memoirs Of a Former Actress

MYSELF AMONG OTHERS By Ruth Gordon. Atheneum. $10

Any time anyone asks what theatrical glamor is, tell them about Ruth Gordon. Coming up on 75 she is, 56 of those years all over several continents as an actress, bon mot collector and celebrity connoisseur. Now she's put it all together. Well, most of it.

With crackling gusto and good nature, Miss Gordon has assembled, either from a frighteningly exact memory of those bulging files she shares with Garson Kanin, her husband, a rattling fine anecdotage about how it was and is. The stories are gossipy fun but more noteworthy is the spirit of buoyant vitality that permeates every page.

No neatly chronological narrator, the star tells about her own start with Maude Adams, the hits, flops and that latest movie role in "Where's Poppa?" with hop-skip abandon. Yet never is the sequence hard to follow, especially if you take the book in short sections.

In her merry memorabilia, the Algonquin wits are back smartly, the international set from Maugham to Olivier turn out, and in between are all sorts of wispy non-sequitur asides.

NOISES ABOUT THE CONCORDE

The Soviet Union has announced that its supersonic passenger plane, the Tupolev 144, will be flown out of the Soviet Union for the first time to appear at the Paris International Air Show opening Thursday (May 27). The Anglo-French Concorde SST also will be on display.

LONDON — "Sometime, someday, public opinion will finally say 'no'" to the supersonic transport, protests the Guardian editorially. "And if that point comes now it will be a victory for civilized values." On the other side of the fence, MP Anthony Wedgewood Been, the former Labor minister of technology, argues that the Anglo-French Concorde is going to be quieter than existing subsonic passenger jets when it enters commercial use in 1974. "Genuine passions for a higher quality of life," said Benn, "are not matched by realism."

Thus the argument is joined in Britain between those who believe that the Concorde will be an "environmental monstrosity," and those whom the magazine Flight International says must be shown that the Concorde is a "social animal with respect to pollution, be it by smoke, noise, or induced climate changes." This leading industry journal added: "There is no convincing any of the 'people who like daisies,' as the environmentalists have been called, that aviation has improved society more than it has impoverished it."

It is not anticipated that the Concorde will ever be permitted to create sonic booms over populated land masses. The likelihood is that if the concorde would be too noisy for American airports on takeoff it would also be banned from Britain.

CONCORDE'S BATTLE with the environmentalists began well before it ever took to the air. Three weeks before the maiden flight in 1969, a group calling itself "The Anti-Concorde Project" attacked the allegedly harmful effects of the plane's supersonic boom, its ground noise, and the noxious influences on the atmosphere.

Although 17 bills currently before state legislatures in America would prohibit SST noise and air pollution, the British Aircraft Corporation believes that its bird is within the range of noise produced by current subsonic jets. Thus any regulation which catches the supersonic craft also would affect existing fleets.

One measure before the New York State legislature lays down that any aircraft producing more than 108 decibels would be considered to generate "excessive noise." As the Boeing 747 is exactly at that 108 decibel ceiling, Anthony Wedgewood Benn told Editorial Research Reports in London that he was convinced the New York bill was "impracticable -- it would close down Kennedy Airport."

THE BRITISH have been encouraged by the comments in London of the Chief of the U. S. Federal Aviation Administration, John Schaffer. He said that tremendous progress was being made to reduce exhaust fumes "and I think that between now and 1974 they will make some significant progress with noise suppression." The conviction that these problems could be overcome as reflected in an April 22 production order when France and Britain agreed to produce four more Concordes.

Schaffer told the British that even if New York airports were closed to the Concorde, Dulles Airport in Washington which is owned and operated by the FAA, would permit the plane to land. Meanwhile it is likely that Russia's supersonic Tupolev 144 will be in service long before its Anglo-French cousin is flying commercially. As Nigel Calder noted in the New Statesman: "The townsfolk of Omsk or Tomsk are not likely, on the fact of it, to stage sit-in protests in the local Aeroflot offices about the sonic boom."

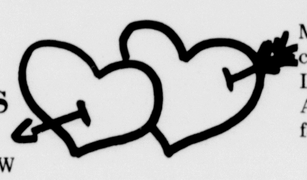
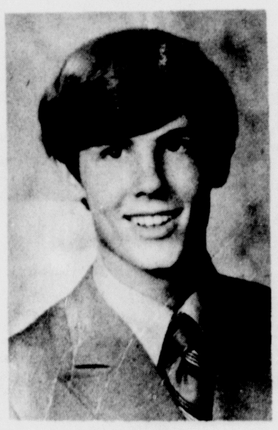
Seniors Have Power To Open New Windows





"OPEN A NEW WINDOW," a song from Sikeston Little Theatre's recent musical "Mame," holds a message many seniors should heed.

The world holds many regards for those who are bold enough to try their hand at introducing a new idea. Much more satisfaction can be gained by turning potential energy into kinetic energy and launching the idea with confidence.

Seniors have gone through 12 years of schooling to give them the background knowledge to accomplish greatness, to move on to more profound achievements. Many seniors will go on to college for the additional education that is demanded in the affluent nation.

More than ever before in history, education is necessary to begin to cope with problems of the magnitude the peoples of the world are facing. Ignorance is nearly intolerable for educational opportunities are open to all.

With graduation just three days away, the senior class must begin to prepare for the world they must face. Many seniors will continue to do as they have--doing only what is expected of them.Some will try just hard enough to be the victor over competitors. Fewer still will be the group that will give all they have to a cause they feel is worthy.

Courage is the main ingredient in these leaders, these innovators-- courage to challenge those they feel are wrong.

Inspiration can be gained from these beginners. They are the ones that will show their followers how to "open a window."

English Dept. Distributes Anthologies

ANTHOLOGY OF STUDENT WRITING, Volume 5, was distributed to English teachers Wednesday afternoon. Students who purchased the anthology earlier in the spring received the book.

"This year," said Mrs. Murray Sullivan, sponsor, "we tried to make the anthology something to treasure. A limited amount of copies were printed."

Anthology Committee consists of senior Barbara O'Guinn, junior Chyrl Curry, sophomore Thom Lemmons, and freshman Barbara Mayfield. Sponsors for this year were Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Ranny Lorch.

Committee compiled and edited the anthology from entries selected by the various English teachers. Four divisions were created--"War and Peace"; "Life and Death"; "Lessons"; and "Love."

Anthology cover was designed by Gloria Garrett and illustrated by Lynn Shy.

Golfers Close Winning Year

Sikeston's Bulldog golfers ended their 1971 season with an impressive nine wins and two losses. Some high points of the season included two tri-meet victories and a fifth place in the 13-team SEMO district tournament. Bulldog golfers opened the season with a win over Kennett and went on to mark up a three-game winning streak before dropping a match to Cape Central by two strokes.

Marking up victories over Dexter, Poplar Bluff, and Blytheville, Coach Gene Dawson's winning squad fell for its second loss of the season to Perryville.

District play placed the Bulldogs over eight other teams in a tournament which matched 13 of the area teams in a contest. Resulting from the district play, junior Tom Dawson collected the runner-up medalist honors and participated in the state tournament.

Although defeat met Dawson in the state tournament, the Bulldogs had the honor of a representative in the state competition.

With many returning lettermen to next year's squad, the outlook to the future may mean a championship squad.

It is our responsibilities, not ourselves, that we should take seriously.

Seniors Say Goodbye To SHS

CO-ORDINATOR MARC NOLES and sub co-ordinator Robert Lashmet of DAK (Drug Abuse Kills) seek members for the new club.

Dear SHS,

It is the end of the year and the time has finally come for us to go. Behind us we are leaving a trail of memories. We now officially forfeit our senior position to the upcoming class of '72. We hope future years will be as memorable and successful as this year was for us. Even though we had our disappointments, we feel they have been outweighed and made worthwhile by the rewards and achievements.

This year has witnessed many "firsts" in the history of SHS. The spirit of our school has achieved a powerful boost through the effort of the newly organized Bleacher Bums. Enthusiastic cheers and colorful hats did much to spur our basketball team on to the regional championship and state tournament.

Other successful groups were originated during the year. Honors Band, consisting of selected musicians from the two varsity bands, started out on the right foot by receiving a one rating in state contest.

DAK, Drug Abuse Kills, was organized to inform students and hopefully reduce the use of harmful drugs in the Sikeston area.

Another "first" of the year was the all-student musical assembly given May 6 for the enjoyment of the student body and faculty.

Tradition was broken this year with the selection of disposable caps and gowns. However, it is unlikely that these mementos will be thrown away in the near future.

Red Peppers went through a few innovations with the addition of the black and white representatives. These newly-elected officials will iron out some problems which may arise during the next school year.

In the sports field, numerous triumphs were experienced by various Bulldog teams.

Our football boys had their moment of glory when they tromped over the Kennett Indians, 34-0. "That was the night that was!"

Even after going on to state competition, the game basketball fans will remember most was the Sikeston--Charleston encounter. School rivalry intensified emotions that had already reached a feverish pitch. When the game ended, SHS had returned to second place the school that so fervently insisted it was "number 1".

Baseball team also did its part in contributing to the athletic achievements of this year. Our "batman" were one of the eight teams left in the state competition playoffs before being beaten by defending champions Lafayette Lancers.

Royalty is a special recognition that is reserved for only seniors. Miss Sikeston candidates, football homecoming and winter sports courts, and Growler king and queen have their own moments which will never be forgotten.

Although we were not able to vote in the last election, senior student council members were instigators of the reorganization of school government.

As we go off to make a better world for those who remain behind we would like to leave a few parting words of wisdom..."Grasp all the fun and knowledge you can, for the carefree days of high school are short."

Sincerely,
Seniors '71

SENIOR SHS MARCHING BULLDOGS smile proudly as they keep in step to their last parade.

FRIENDSHIPS AND GOOD TIMES will never be forgotten as these seniors practice perfect formation for the snapshot.

That's The Law

When Bandit Shoots It's No Accident

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Dinkle's general store had everything but a general. and, he could have used one. In fact, he could have used a whole army since hold-up men came around almost as frequently as costomers.

One night, the irate merchant decided he had turned over his hard-earned money to transient gunmen for the last time. And, waving a baseball bat ofer his head as if it were a shillelagh, he chased one out of his store.

Unfortunately, before disappearing aroung a corner, the gunman fired a shot that cought Mr. Dinkle in the leg. Badly hobbled by the bullet, Mr. Dinkle filed a claim with his insurance company under an accident policy.

"Your getting shot was no accident," he was told. "The gunman aimed at you and hit you. Where's the accident?"

"In my being shot," responded the merchant. "Obviously, I didn't intend to get shot."

Intent upon collecting under his policy, Mr. Dinkle took his insurance claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the merchant to collect under his accident policy?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held, in effect, that when a person chases a gunman he sets himself up as a clay pigeon and can anticipate being shot. Therefore, if he does get shot, it's no accident.

(Based upon a 1929 Tennessee Supreme Court Decision)

GIDEON -- Mrs. Roy A. Sale of Altus, Okla., has been selected as the 1970 Military Airlift Command Family Service Volunteer of the year at Altus AFB.

In ceremonies attended by base officials, a letter of congratulations from Gen. Jack J. Catton, MAC commander, was read.

The letter in part read:

"It is a distinct pleasure to offer you my congratulations on your selection as both the Altus AFB and the Military Airlift Command Family Services Volunteer of 1970 . . .

"Your work in the past year best exemplified the ideal Family Service Volunteer; the lady always ready to sacrifice her time and own personal interest to aid Air Force personnel and dependents in time of need or emergency."

Mrs. Sale began her Family Services work in February 1968 at Tinker AFB, Okla. There she served on the welcoming staff and held the positions of director of the loan locker and assistant coordinator. In 1968 she was a nominee for the Tinker Farmily Services Volunteer of the Year.

Since coming to Altus she has been named Volunteer of the Month in October 1969 and volunteer of the quarter for April to June 1970. Her top award previous to the MAC award was Volunteer of the Year at Altus.

She began 1970 as assistant coordinator. She took over as coordinator in February 1970 and effectively led the organization until October.

Not content to rest, she took over work with the loan locker, conducting a comprehsnsive inventory and instituting new procedures for more adequate control of loan items and setting up a more streamlined accounting procedure.

Mrs. Sale has accumulated more than 2000 hours of volunteer service in her three years as avolunteer. More than 1,000 of these hours have been contributed at Altus.

A native of Gideon, Mo., (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Walker), she finds time to enjoy reading, bowling, cycling and tennis despite her busy Family Services schedule.

She also contributes time a: a worker for the Thrift Shop as part of her NCO wives Club activities.

She and her husband, M/Sgt. Roy A. Sale, a flight engineer instructor with the 443rd Technical Training Squadron have four children, Ike, 16 Teresa, 15, Lvonne, 11 and James 10.

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

LAWMAKERS FACE CRUCIAL DECISIONS AS SESSION DRAWS TO A CLOSE

JEFFERSON CITY, -- As the Missouri Legislature enters its final two weeks before the June 15 adjournment date, it faces crucial decisions on many major issues.

Most important is the final state budget for 1971-72. The Senate and House are more than $70 million apart and last week had not yet begun conference committee action to resolve the differences.

Separate redistricting plans for Missouri's ten congressional seats must also b e worked out in conference soon.

The House has okayed a resolution to ratify a U. S. Constitutional Amendment permitting 18- year-olds to vote in all elections, but the Senate has yet to act on the measure, although it is now on the calendar and awaiting debate.

The Senate must also decide whether to approve strengthened air and water pollution laws which have already passed the House. Both are still in committee. A major drug reform bill is also sitting in a Senate committee.

Many of the new programs will have their destinies decided in the Senate's Budget Control Committee, which must okay any measure which will cost the state more than $50,000 during the coming year.

That committee will decide, for example, whether a $3 million scholarship program will be set up for students attending public and private colleges and universities in Missouri.

It will also have a say -so on a House -approved bill to provide services to non - public school students, such as guidance counseling, testing and remedial instruction.

The Budget Control Committee has a tight grasp on a constitutional amendment to change residency and terms in office provisions so Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth could square off for governor next year. The measure has cleared the House, but is not expected to get out of the Senate committee.

Tax measures appear to be wrapped up. Passage of the income tax increase has stilled the clamor for a sales tax hike, although bills for such hikes are sitting on House and Senate calendars in position for debate.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has vetoed a two - cent gas tax increase because it was not tied to his $475 million bond issue for construction of state roads. The governor is now urging the Highway Commission to mount an initiative petition drive to put the issue on the ballot, since the Senate has blocked the bond issue. It now appears that no more money will be available for road use, since the Senate failed in an attempt to override the governor's veto.

A constitutional amendment which would authorize the state to conduct a lottery and parimutuel betting on horse races is in position for Senate action, possibly this week. Supporters say it would raise between $10 and $15 million per year.

Several major bills have been killed in House and Senate committees. In each chamber committees nixed plans to preserve scenic rivers in the Ozarks region, for example. A liberalized abortion proposal was killed by a House committee.

A bill to set up no-fault auto insurance in the state is languishing without action in a House committee. Another House committee has failed to act on a "no-fault" divorce bill which, although it passed the Senate more than a month ago, was not referred to committee by House speaker James Godfrey, D-St. Louis, for three weeks.

The General Assembly can claim several accomplishments so far, including passage of the income tax increase, a strong strip - mining reclamation measure, a bill to permit sale of liquor on Sunday in businesses where ate least 50 per cent of income comes from food sales, and a law to extend fiar employment practices to employers of six or more persons.

In all, the governor has signed 25 bills into law.

Western Union Offices Shut Down by Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Two unions representing 20,100 employes struck Western Union today, closing its public offices across the country and halting the acceptance and delivery of domestic telegrams, money orders and overseas cables.

The United Telegraph Workers and the Communications Workers of America, both AFLCIO, walked off the job at 12:01 a.m. after talks had been broken off in the dispute over wages and job security.

Rejecting a company offer of a 20 per cent wage increase over two years, 4 per cent of which hinged on government approval of higher tariffs, the unions demanded a 31 per cent hike over two years.

"We very much regret that the unions representing our employes have chosen to inconvenience the public by calling a strike," the company president, Earl D. Hilburn, said in a statement.

"We know that our remaining differences will be equitably resolved—not on the picket line but at the bargaining table."

Although its public offices were closed, the company said it would maintain government communications services, leased private wires, the Telex and TWX teletype exchanges, various automated electronic data services and the new "mailgram" electronic message service, operated jointly with the post office.

Supervisory and engineering personnel were to fill in for striking employes on the government and business communication services, which are largely automated.

The UTW represents 17,000 teletype operators, clerks and installation and repair technicians across the country. The CWA is bargaining agent for 3,100 such workers in New York and New Jersey.

The company said its "final offer" called for a 6 per cent raise effective June 1, with another 4 per cent when and if the Federal Communications Commission approved higher tariffs. An additional 10 per cent would come in the second year.

A CWA spokesman said the union was demanding an 18 per cent wage increase effective June 1 and 13 per cent more the following year. The average wage of CWA members now is $3.47 an hour, the union said.

In addition to wages, the UTW negotiations involved job security issues including demands for a prohibition of contracting out workers and restrictions on personnel transfers.

Six weeks of bargaining preceded the breakdown in the talks on Sunday.

Largest Class Of 310 Seniors Wins Diplomas

by MIKE JENSEN

The Sikeston high school graduating class of 1971 was the largest, perhaps the rowdiest, and happiest as the 70th annual commencement exercises marked the end of Memorial Day.

Under the theme of "We've Only Just Begun" the 310 graduates marched onto the high school football field to the strains of the traditional "Pomp and Circumstances," played by the sophomore band. The previous record size class was that of 1967 when there were 269 graduates.

Senior Class President George Hensley cited three traditions begun by the class of 1971 including the bleacher bums, the non-returnable graduation gowns, and the senior trip to St. Louis.

He urged future graduating classes to continue the traditions.

The exercises turned into a three ring circus when at least a half-dozen smoke bombs exploded among the seated graduates. The graduates appeared unruffled and Hensley told the large crowd "As you can see, this will be a graduation to remember."

Danny Dale Powers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Powers of route one, was named valedictorian. He was president of the Future Business Leaders of America and a finalist in the national merit scholarship competition. His accumulative grade point average was 3.887 on a four-point scale.

Powers has been accepted at the University of Missouri at Columbia.

Barbara O'Guinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill O'Guinn was the salutatorian. Her activities include; Red Peppers, Art Club, Honor Society, Concert Choir, Biology Club, Drama Club, news editor of the Barker and editor of the Growler.

Miss O'Guinn, also the receipient of the C. L. Blanton journalism award, presented annually by the Daily Standard, will attend the University of Missouri at Columbia to pursue a career in journalism.

Her grade point average was 3.73.

Sherman said that 48 per cent of the class have made application to colleges, universities or trade schools. This is the largest percentage ever to seek higher education, Sherman said.

Lynn Twitty, making his final appearance as superintendent of schools, spoke of his 20 years in the school system.

Twitty said that in the past 20 years, 3,694 students have graduated from the high school and were "for the most part, upstanding citizens, and outstanding members of the community." Board of education members and the graduating class gave Twitty a standing ovation.

"We cannot reach our goals alone, we must have determination. And we must have faith in our fellow man and in God," she said.

Miss DuSablon was one of four students chosen by the class to speak at commencement.

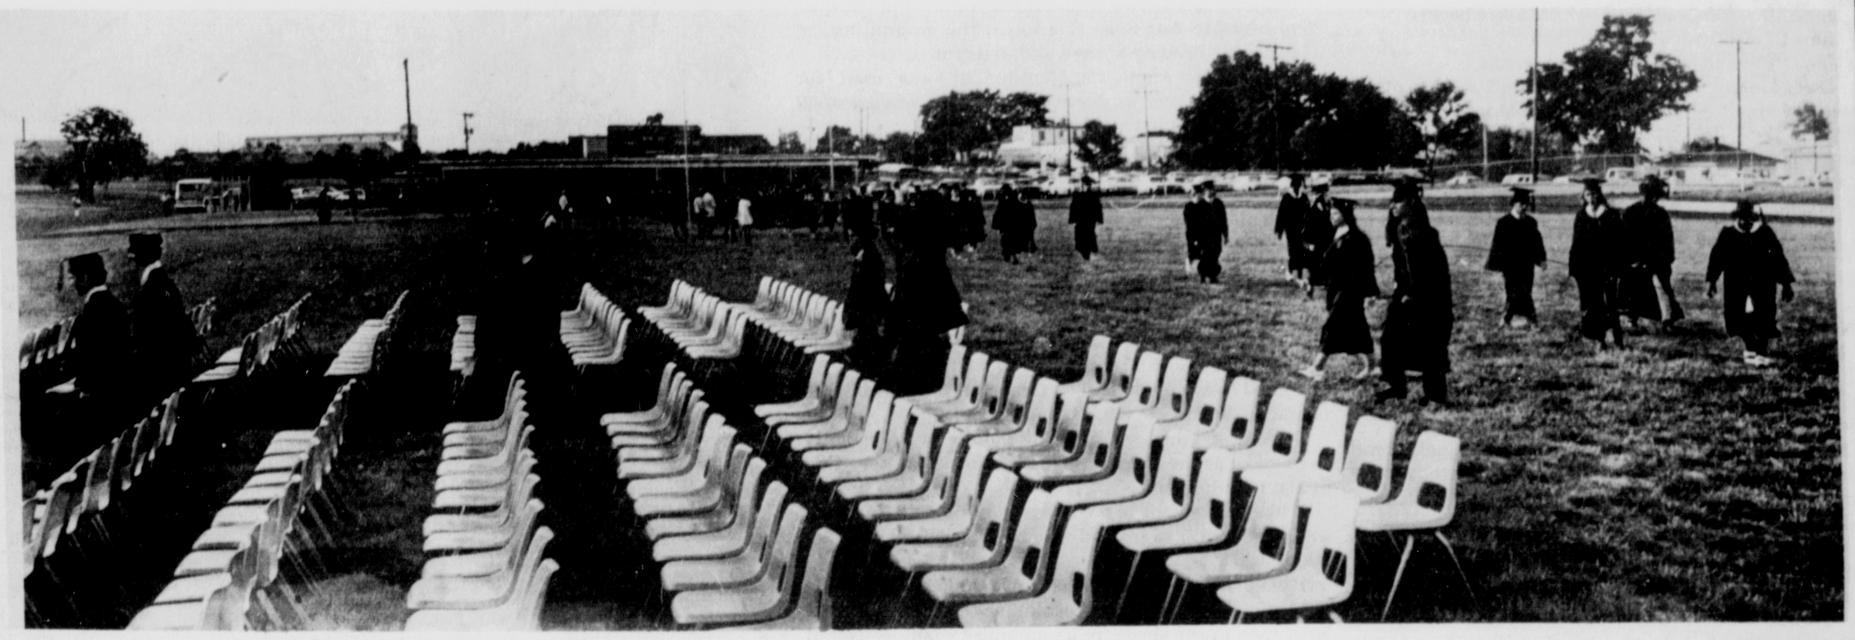
Others chosen were Julie Harbin on the theme "To Trust with Understanding"; Sally Mitchell on the theme "To Love with Concern"; and Steve Forbis on the theme "To Live with Harmony."

Baccalaureate services were Sunday night with the Rev. Durward Penry, pastor of the First Christian Church, preaching.

"Seniors, you have come to that place in life where the world's wares are before you. You will want much of what you see, but remember payment is required. The wares of success are displayed before you. We all want some of that, but in order to have it the down payment of self-discipline, patience and hard work must be made—without the price, one cannot hope to attain the goal.

"You will be challenged at every turn to embrace ideas and ideals established by sources other than your own. You will be called upon to use your judgement. How often you have looked over the edge of the nest longing to be a part of a more exciting life—this life is now yours—handle it with care and the future will be yours," Penry told the graduates.

The Rev. James Hackney, First Baptist pastor, the Rev. Harold Lohrmann, Concordia Lutheran pastor, and the Rev. Ira Fruits, Miner Baptist pastor, also addressed the class.



White House Informed Hijacked Plane to Be Released Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today it has been informed by foreign diplomats that Cuba will release Wednesday a hijacked Pan American Airways plane and its 68 passengers and crew members detained in Havana since Saturday.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said this word came from the Swiss Embassy in Havana and the Czechoslovakian Embassy in Washington. The United States does not maintain diplomatic relations with Cuba.

There had been widespread speculation that the Pan Am plane and those aboard were being kept in Havana as hostages for the release of four Cuban fishing boat captains who have been held in Florida on charges of fishing in American waters.

Ziegler, when asked whether the Cuban fishermen would be released simultaneously with the return of the American air liner, referred such inquiries to the State Department.

Some sources said they understood Cuba had not connected the fishing incidents and the hijacked air liner. The Cuban fishermen were arrested Wednesday.

A Pan American Airways spokesman said in Miami that the plane might have been held in Havana because of the arrest of the Cuban boat captains.

And although the Cuban government remained silent today about its reasons for the threeday detention of the jet, Havana radio announced that another fleet of fishing boats was en route to the spot off the Florida keys where the boat captains were arrested.

Pan Am's public relations director, Robert Bohne, said Monday, "We don't have knowledge of it but we've been thinking that it might lengthen the stay of those passengers if the Cuban captains aren't released." The captains have been jailed in Key West and are awaiting trial June 7 on charges of violating the 12-mile American fishing zone.

U.S. Coast Guard officials said today no new Cuba flotilla had been sighted in the Keys area.

Havana Radio acknowledged Saturday's hijacking for the first time Monday. But it did not respond to a plea from Pan Am President Najeeb Halaby to release the Boeing 707, its 60 passengers and nine crew members.

In a Miami-monitored broadcast, the official voice of Fidel Castro's Communist regime said the plane was diverted from its Caracas-to-Miami flight by a "Venezuelan youth who claimed political reasons."

After the broadcast, Havana radio then dwelled on the fishing boat captains.

Flight 442 was commandeered by a hijacker who reportedly grabbed a woman passenger and threatened her with a knife, forcing the pilot to fly to Havana.

The plane began its trip Saturday in Buenos Aires with 21 passengers.

Thirty-nine more boarded in Caracas.

Caracas said Monday they had not identified the hijacker. They said a Cuban-American, Hugo Delagado, told them he was attacked by an unidentified man in the men's room at Caracas airport.

World War II Hero Audie Murphy One Of Six Victims of Mountaintop Crash

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — The wreckage of a chartered airplane carrying World War II hero Audie Murphy and five other men has been found on a rugged mountaintop near here.

Pathologists worked today trying to positively identify the bodies removed from the wreckage Monday by rescue workers and taken to Roanoke Community Hospital.

The rescue workers said three bodies might be identified by physical features, but the other three were burned so badly they were unrecognizable.

"All indications point to the fact that it is Audie," said Lincoln Carle, the 46-year-old Murphy's business manager. "We don't have positive identification but everything else matches."

As the nation's most decorated World War II hero, Murphy received 24 medals from the American government, three from the French and one from the Belgians.

He won the Medal of Honor after he mounted a burning American tank and, although wounded, held off with a .50caliber machine gun German troops which were advancing on him from three sides.

Besides the Medal of Honor he won the Distinguished Service Cross, the Legion of Merit, the Silver Star with Oak Leaf cluster, the Bronze Star and the Croix de Guerre. He also received the Purple Heart with two Oak Leaf clusters.

Murphy who rose to lieutenant also was commended for having killed 240 German soldiers.

Murphy had been flying to Martinsville 60 miles south of here on business. The plane went down Friday morning but the crash went undetected three days because of bad weather and because no flight plan had been filed.

Numbers still visible on the tail of the twin-engine Aero Commander matched those on the aircraft in which Murphy and five others had boarded in Atlanta. The wreckage was spotted Monday on the north side of 3,066-foot Brushy Mountain about 14 miles northwest of here. It was reached later in the day by rescue workers, who had to hike four miles up the steep mountain terrain.

The five persons who boarded the plane with Murphy were Claude Crosby, president of Modular Management, a subsidiary of Modular Properties Inc. of Atlanta; Jack Littleton of Fort Collins, Colo., secretary-treasurer of Lenoir Corp.; Raymond Prater, a Chattanooga, Tenn., lawyer representing Modular Management; Kim Dody of Ft. Collins, Colo., a friend of Littleton; and the pilot, Herman Butler of Denver, Colo.

Murphy turned to business several years ago after a 44movie career that included "To Hell and Back," a film based on his autobiography, and "The Red Badge of Courage."

He recently produced his first movie, "A Time for Dying," to be released later this month in which he played a cameo role and, said Carle, "gave one of his finest performances, as short as it was." Murphy's son Terry also had a brief part in the film.

Carle said plans were in the works for another picture in Mexico.

The plane, a propjet, last was heard from Friday morning when Butler radioed the flight service station at Roanoke's Woodrum Airport to advise he planned to land there in 40 minutes.

Rain and low ceiling at the time made a landing approach through the mountainous region hazardous.

Because the Murphy party had filed no flight plan, the Federal Aviation Administration said no reports had been received the plane was missing until Sunday afternoon.

Rainy, overcast weather made a search impossible until the skies cleared Monday.

A trooper said the plane "went in with tremendous force."

Three bodies were found in the plane; three were thrown out.

A spokesman for Modular Properties Inc., which specializes in factory-built homes, motels and other structures, said the Murphy party was on the way to Martinsville to inspect a company plant in which Murphy was considering investing.

Three years ago, Murphy had declared bankruptcy, saying a series of losing business ventures had left him broke.

He married twice, his first to actress Wanda Hendrix ending in divorce. His second wife, Pamela, a former airline stewardess, lived with Murphy and their two sons, Terry, 18, and James "Skipper," 16, in North Hollywood, Calif.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

If it were not for the fear of public opinion, most people would behave much worse than they do.

* * *

THEY SAY THAT June is the romantic month due to all of the weddings. Guess we who are invited to these weddings should tip our hat to Henry W. Seely for this help in coming up with an idea that many have used as appreciated gifts to such affairs. Way back in 1882 H. W. got a patent for the first electric flatiron. One of the biggest advantages of this invention was that the cord kept the flatiron from traveling too far when the bloom of love became rather wilted.

More serious events in the month include: Fight the Filthy Fly month, Ragweed control month, Seat Belt month and Rose month.

June 5 — Let's Play Golf Week begins
June 7 — Freedom of the Press Day
June 13 — National Flag Week begins, Root Beer Week
June 14 — Flag Day
June 20 — Father's Day, Amateur Radio Week begins
June 26 — National Tom Sawyer Days begins
June 27 — Freedom Week begins
June 30 — Old Milwaukee Days begins

Then looking ahead to the seventh month of the year we find National Barbecue Month, Hot Dog Month, Let's Play Tennis Week, Safe Boating Week, Anniversary of man's first landing on the moon; National Farm Safety Week plus the Fourth of July observance.

END THE DOLLAR CRISIS

Many things can be said against the late Benito Mussolini, but he was more right than wrong when he called the great depression of 1929 "a vast bookkeeping error."

People were starving, and many more hungry amid plenty, or the possibility of producing plenty. At the same time, mules were balking at the unaccustomed task of plowing under every third row of cotton. Soon to come was the system of paying farmers not to produce food, which is still being done. The fields, the farmers, the factories, the workers, the managers, and the owners were all there, but something was wrong with the system.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt took the country off the gold standard, but dollars could still be exchanged for gold by foreign holders of our money. Gradually the United States regained a measure of prosperity. After World War II the United States was the richest and strongest nation in the world. The monetary and economic system could not have been all bad.

But affluent America overdid. We gave away $178 billion in Lend -Lease, aid, grants and gifts. The economy perked along and no one complained. But one of our World War II partners, the Soviet Union, proved to be an aggressor nation. Wo we had the Korean war and the Vietnam war, costly conflicts that started our balance of payments deficits in our foreign trade, 20 in the last 21 years.

Now there is a plethora of dollars in Europe. So let us do what has to be done to correct the situation, without hard feelings of name - calling among nations.

SUDAN: RUSSIA'S OWN 'VIETNAM'

At a time when America is struggling to extricate itself from Vietnam, Russia appears to be getting involved in a "Vietnam" of its own -- the war in Sudan which has been going on for the past nine years.

Russia - watchers in Washington have evidence that in the past six months 100 to 200 Soviet military advisers have been directly planning and participating in the counterguerrila operations of the Arab-led Sudan army against the Africans of southern Sudan.

A larger group of 300 or more Russians pilot and service Soviet - built helicopters and bombers supporting combat operations in the south. Up to 1,000 Soviet personnel in all are estimated to be supporting the Arabs as advisers, pilots, ground crews and missile technicians.

Soviet bombings in southern Sudan since October, according to U.S. intelligence information, have been carried out by five Antonov -24 aircraft armed with air -to -ground rockets and some of the 12 TU-16 medium bombers based in Sudan. In the north, at Port Sudan on the Red Sea, the Russians are building a naval base and installing SAM-2 antiaircraft missiles.

The Soviets are the principal backers of the army regime of Gen. Gaafar L. Numeiry, which seized power in May, 1969, with the stated purpose of bringing "Arab socialism" to all of Sudan.

Opposing them in the south are the Anyanya guerrillas, the military wing of the African movement. The six million southerners (population of Sudan is 15 million) have demand full regional autonomy, including control of the army, police, civil service, schools and economy in the south, as well as the freedom to practice Christianity and speak English, as opposed to the north's Islamic religion and insistence on the use of Arabic throughout Sudan.

The southern guerrillas' principal support has come from Israeli airdrops of light weaponry and ammunition in the past year.

The Sudan war is thus increasingly viewed as an extension of the Middle East conflict. Soviet aims are believed to be both to establish a strong base from which Soviet naval power can be projected into the Red Sea and the Persian Gul fand to bottle up the Israelis on their Red Sea flank.

It is also seen as part of a longer - range Soviet strategy to influence Africa, continue to dominate the Arab world and to leapfrog beyond the Mediterranean and the West European NATO defense system.

Leny Wacht, the Yazoo Delta's apostle of art at Greenwood and all over, passes along this message written for her by a friend:

I've never seen the wind,
But I have seen the trees bow low.
I've never seen life,
But I've seen the flowers grow.
I've never seen love
In any certain place;
But I have seen it transform
Many another's face.
I've never seen God,
But I can feel He's just as real,
As anything I can see.

I Guess I'm Just A Square

I liked it when our public office holders were statesmen instead of politicians.

I liked it when our school teachers could use a board on an unruly child instead of having to stand there and look at a nosethumb.

I liked it in the summer when the ice cream social on the back porch was a family ritual instead of a quick trip to the freezer.

I liked it when our policemen were referred to as officers instead of "the fuzz".

I liked it when you would invite a punch in the nose if you let the American flag touch the ground instead of watching it being burned and desecrated.

I liked it when the family car was used for transportation and an occasional leisurely drive instead of being hot-rodded all over hell's half-acre.

I liked it when our nation's capitol was revered and honored instead of spawning a mecca of rioters, protestors and crime.

I liked it when the movies cost a dime, the popcorn a nickel and the most shocking scene you ever saw was Jimmy Cagney pushing a grapefruit into Mae Clark's face, instead of the sex, nudity, violence and perversion that permeates the screen.

I liked it when the Bible was the best seller instead of The Valley of the Dolls.

I liked it when you had to scrape for a dollar instead of waiting for Uncle Sam to hand it to you.

I liked it when you got a whale of a tanning for smoking corn silk instead of being gently chided for taking LSD.

I liked it when "the long hot summer" meant the old swimming hole, a picnic in the park, a cool lemonade in the shade, or a nap under a fan, instead of civil disorder, plundering, terror and murder.

I liked it when ... but I know I can't go back ... so I guess I'm just a square. -- Col. Lester Simpson in the Holden Progress

The men talk a good deal about house cleaning, but it is a fact that most wives clean house in such a way that the men are not put out, and have their meals on time. The only way the average man knows about the house cleaning is when he discovers that the bureau in the bedroom has been moved. Wives do a great many things to oblige their husbands for which they receive little credit.

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a long, long way from the night you decide to get married to the day the rings are slipped on, and being just halfway there, I'm feeling like something of a cross between a blushing bride and a hardnosed personnel manager.

It all began when he proposed, and the only thing we had to toast each other with was oysters on the half shell. By the time our luscious dinner of lobster and wine finally arrived, we were too excited to eat a bite.

Then we had to tell my parents. I thought it would be the revelation of the ages, and all my mother said was, "I knew it." When my newly announced husband-to-be called his mother, all I heard was, "Mom, I'm getting married." And the next thing I heard him say was, "No—not tomorrow."

We came up with a date for the big event eight months in the future. I figured there would be plenty of time for the "minor" preparations, since we only wanted a small wedding. Little did I know.

I had no sooner gotten back to work than the "mailed approach" began—with great packets arriving every day from my parents—full of information on china, crystal, decorating your first home and most important—recipes for beginners.

However, the folks soon gave up trying to communicate with me by mail, and the "phone approach" began.

But since I ended up talking more to my mother, my father soon began calling me at work on Monday mornings for equal time. Then, in the middle of the week my grandparents would call.

I did become the recipient of a beautiful diamond ring. Only trouble was it was about three sizes too big. I had to con a jeweler into cutting it down for me on the spot.

Not long ago we went back home for an engagement party—replete with more confusion.

I am getting used to the constant hassle. However my bridegroom is just now starting to become traumatized. He'll be all right though—as soon as he stops having his recurring nightmare about losing his shoes and having to wear combat boots to the wedding.

Ancient Hindu scriptures declare that "Where women are honored, gods dwell." And Plato in his treatise "Republic" says that there should be complete equality between the sexes.

But it took a long, long time — until the middle of the 19th century — for much progress to be made toward equality. And the 19th amendment, granting women the right to vote, wasn't passed until 1920.

But since then, women's participation in economics and political life has undergone great changes. And if a woman still has to "try harder" from her No. 2 spot, she does have the opportunity of competing for most any job she wishes.

Not only that, a good many women have started their own small businesses successfully. Although none is apt to give big industry any sleepless nights, some may make the financial world sit up and take notice. In fact, one woman flabbergasted a Dun & Bradstreet investigator who asked her the financial rating of her business. She confessed that her capital investment was "just $45!"

Many wise women have succeeded in business because they understood what women want. If Dad earns the dollar, it's Mom who spends it, and services designed to fill family needs are most likely to be popular.

For example some of the successful ideas women have based a business on include marketing artistic candles, African violets, hand - dipped chocolates, scented writing paper, seashell jewelry and art objects.

One expectant mother started a profitable business making attractive drawstring maternity aprons. Another woman, the wife of a professional man, realized how many men did, or would like to, take their families with them when they went to scientific meetings abroad. So, she launched a career renting European villas to American families.

Another unusual enterprise is a school for housewives founded by three California women. Other businesses that fill service needs are child care centers for working mothers, or wedding bureaus that handle all the details of bridal planning, or party catering.

One firm, which handles conventions in big cities, provides sight - seeing tours for children. Their motto is "You take the holiday, we take the kids."

If you are interested in starting a business, you'll find a wealth of material in libraries on such subjects as financiing, licenses, packaging, record - keeping, taxes, insurance and government regulations. Then all you need is a good idea and an indulgent husband.

A MAN'S WORLD?

Try this puzzler on yourself:

A father and son were in an auto wreck. The father was killed and the son was rushed to a hospital for emergency surgery. The attending surgeon looked at the boy and said, "I can't operate; that's my son."

How could this be?

No, there aren't any hidden factors, such as adoption. The boy was the natural son of both the dead man and the surgeon.

This story was told at the recent American Political Science Association convention in Los Agneles where it stumped most people, reports Science Service — men and women, liberals and conservatives alike.

The explanation, of course, is that the surgeon was the boy's mother.

The story was concocted to illustrate just how pervasive "male chauvinism" or antifemale prejudice is in our society, infecting even women themselves.

It may be wondered, however, whether the failure of most people to guess the answer is due to male chauvinism or to the fact that there just aren't many women surgeons around.

Yet female militants would argue that the fact that there aren't many women surgeons around is still due to male chauvinism, which teaches children that little boys grow up to be surgeons and little girls become nurses.

So the next time Ben Casey asks for the scalpel, girls, let him have it.

H.L. Hunt Says

BLACK SILENT MAJORITY

A call to patriotism has been sounded by the National Black Silent Majority Committee and every Negro leader in the country ought to give it serious consideration. The message of its newly announced crusade is to "speak out against crime and black radical agitation and to support police efforts to maintain security and safe streets in black communities."

The committee's national director, Clary Claiborne, said his group would pick up the bills for Negro business leaders who make a tour of cities with more than a 30 per cent black population. He said the tours would take more than 18 months and cost around $1,000,000. The purpose of the tours will be to take a pro-police stance.

Mr. Claiborne said that 30 policemen have been killed on duty this year and that "someone has to start a movement toward tangible, visible support for law and order on a national scale".

The National Black Silent Majority Committee is headquartered in Washington, D.C., and the crusade tours are slated to start in May, according to a spokesman.

It is heartening to see this group swing into action alongside other patriotic groups. Perhaps the real majority of people in this country, regardless of color of skin, have been silent too long. They need to be heard above the clamor of the radical and lawless groups. Mr. Claiborne's committee of 8,500 dues-paying members could rekindle hope and help restore common sense as it moves toward "tangible, visible support for law and order on a nationwide scale". HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- Stephen Sachs, the former U. S. attorney who investigated some of the biggest nabobs on Capitol Hill, has acknowledged behind closed doors that he freely subpoenaed the telephone records of Members of Congress.

His grand jury investigations in Baltimore involved such headline figures as ex-Speaker John McCormack, House Majority Leader Hale Boggs, Sen. Russell Long, D-La., Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., ex-Rep. Arnold Olsen, D-Mont., ex-Rep. James Morrison, D-La., and ex-Sen. Dan Brewster, D-Md.

Of the lot, the grand jury indicted only Brewster on bribery charges that were later dismissed. But Sachs's hot breath on the backs of some prominent congressional necks has not endeared him to the powers on Capitol Hill.

Now a practising attorney in Baltimore, Sachs was hauled behind closed doors by the House Administration Committee to determine whether congressional rights had been violated.

"You have subpoenaed Congressmen's telephone records. Is that right?" demanded Chairman Wayne Hays, D-Ohio.

"Yes, sir," said Sachs.

"Did they know they were being subpoenaed?" pressed Hays. "Did the Congressmen know?"

"I doubt it very much," said Sachs. "Put it this way, I don't believe in any case they were informed officially."

FISHING EXPEDITIONS?

"Did you ever have any knowledge of any subpoenas being issued for congressional telephone records where there was no allegation or suggestion of wrongdoing, just what a layman might call a fishing expedition?" asked the chairman.

"No, sir ..." replied Sachs. "In no case was any subpoena issued by my office idly or maliciously or for any other reason than for good cause."

"You and other district attorneys," snorted Hays, "can subpoena almost any record of a Congressman, certainly their telephone records, which you have done. If I want to subpoena your records ... or if I want a list of (State Department) phone calls, there is no way on God's earth I can do it, because the executive branch stands on executive privilege and refuses to surrender ...

"The legislative branch is at considerable disadvantage under the (separation -of - powers) theory when our records can be subpoenaed willy-nilly, but we cannot get our hands on any records we want ..."

"In my firm judgment," Sachs replied, "the records of the phone company are the records of the phone company and not the records of the Congress."

But Hays would not be put off.

"The thing that bothers me," he snorted, "is that you can go in and grab a Member's records, and he may not know about it for six months or six years or maybe never."

"That is right," agreed Sachs.

SPECIAL TREATMENT

"Do you feel from your vast experience in the Justice Department," interrupted Rep. Sam Devine, R-Ohio, "that Members of Congress are entitled to any treatment any different from any ordinary citizen in connection with their business telephone or home telephone records?"

"No, Congressman," said Sachs, "quite frankly I do not."

He pointed out that the corruption statutes include Members of Congress as "public officials."

"It is the Congress which has made Members of the Congress amenable to the Criminal Code," he said.

"How can you in Baltimore issue a subpoena," demanded Rep. William Dickinson, R-Ala., "to the (telephone) company of the District of Columbia?"

"Because in a criminal case there is nationwide service of process..." explained Sachs. "The U.S. attorney or a grand jury can issued subpoenas to any place in the United States."

"What if you wanted the records of the White House?" asked Dickinson. "Can you get them from the telephone company by just subpoenaeing them?"

"I never tried," said the former U.S. attorney. "I don't know."

Grumped Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa: "I am impressed with the obvious unfairness that prevails between a Member of Congress and the Executive ... It seems to me we do not have a co-equal situation when the executive has certain powers and rights in carrying out their msision, and we in Congress do not."

Headlines and Footnotes

WALLACE IMPACT -- Labor leaders are privately worried over the continuing popularity of George Wallace, the Dixie demagogue, among union members. Their private polls show Wallace is still the first presidential choice of one out of every five unionists. The machinists' polls, for example, show that the Democratic front runner, Sen. Ed Muskie, outpolls President Nixon and Wallace together by almost three to two. Such poor suppert from rank -and -file union members would be disastrous for the Democrats in 1972.

SIHOANOUK'S LETTER -- Prince Sihanouk, the deposed Cambodian ruler and Peking puppet, has managed to smuggle a letter to his mother, who is held a virtual prisoner in her villa in Phnom Penh. She is not allowed to receive mail from him, but she has confided to intimates that at least one letter has reached her. The Queen Mother's associates say Sihanouk promised in the letter to give up politics, come home and take care of her as soon as he could arrange it.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

New Dramatic Twist:
World's Left-Wing Labor Chiefs See Hoffa as Powerful Ally.

WASHINGTON: Because the prize is priceless and the power awesome, the momentary silence from Jimmy (The Riddle) Hoffa's prison cell is head-splitting. Throughout the nation, which I've just criss-crossed, and everywhere in the free world, labor leaders -- and especially left wingers who see Hoffa as potentially the most powerful ally they can find -- are listening hard for signals from the bantam inmate of the Lewisburg Penitentiary.

If Hoffa retains the presidency of the Teamsters, world's largest union, he will again concentrate power in the brotherhood's marble halls here. Thus he would become the balance of power in a national and international struggle now whirling angrily behind the scenes between pro-Soviet and American labor leaders for philosophical influence over the world's proletariat.

For the moment this world duel must be taken for granted here. Hoffa's coalition with the left-wing Pacific Coast longshoremen (who are "stepping up" their Free Hoffa petition campaign) and his charismatic influence with strong extremist British transportation unionists should not be doubted.

With Jim Hoffa in control of America's road transport system and intra-city trucking of cargoes from the docks of the nation's harbors, he and his friends abroad could become world powers. They could, if they would, shake the economy of nations.

Much of Britain's economic miseries can be traced to waterfront transport difficulties and strikes, it was explai * * * to me recently by former Prime Minister Harold Wilson -- who, as an official Socialist, is not inclined to conjure wraith-like proletarian conspiracies

So the election of an International Brotherhood of Teamsters president the week of July 5 is not just another poll of union delegates. It is of global significance.

Not only would Jim Hoffa's reelection affect the world balance of labor power in that intricate sector which unfortunately so few observe except when there are such cataclysmic labor upheavals as that which actually toppled the late Gen. de Gaulle, but the balance in America would be shifted inside labor. Hoffa would work closely with the United Auto Workers (UAW) and -- though it has gone unnoted -- this has been corroborated by the call of UAW President Leonard Woodcock for Hoffa's freedom.

But those who are Hoffa-watchers are concentrating too closely on Lewisburg Penitentiary. They should switch to Butte, Montana. There on June 14, some three weeks before the opening of the Teamsters' convention, one Ed Grady Partin will stand trial in the federal court on criminal anti-trust charges.

Ed Partin is a mighty rough Teamster leader from Baton Rouge, La. As chief of Teamsters Local 5 there, he controls trucking, ware houses and the general movement of what it takes to build anything from a squirrel cage to a $150 million refinery.

Ed Partin has thrown his weight around -- and this is considerable. He's quite a figure in Louisiana. The Justice Dept. believes he's too much a figure and is trying to cut him down. The charges are very serious. He could go to prison for a longer time than that to which his testimony back in the '60s sent the Teamsters general president to Lewisburg.

Since Partin is so notorious in and around Louisiana he was granted a change of venue to Butte. Thus two developments are unloosed. Anything can happen during the Partin trial. Jimmy Hoffa swears Partin lied during the jury tampering trial before Judge Frank Wilson in Chattanooga. And some of Hoffa's friends claim that Partin -- whose testimony did such damage to Hoffa -- has recanted and they have it in writing. Partin rejects the story. Says he never lied. But anything can happen in the Butte trial. Watch it.

Partin could respond to the prosecution or his own attorneys in such a manner that Hoffa could fashion new and successful pleas for release.

Second: If Partin could get a change of venue, why can't Hoffa? And that's just what he now is seeking -- a change of venue on his appeal from Judge Wilson in Chattanooga to another federal bench elsewhere in the land. And those who did not sit through the horrendous trial of Hoffa as did Judge Wilson -- day after day, sleepless night after night -- might feel differently about Hoffa and grant him a retrial.

So not all the decisions will be made by the Teamsters International Executive Board as they meet here in Washington. They want Jimmy to tell them whether he's running -- in writing. This might be difficult since a prison inmate, even Jim Hoffa, can't conduct business from his cell. And his mail is limited and spot-checked.

Hoffa wants desperately to run. Especially since he has a powerful majority of the delegates from the big states; Illinois, New Jersey, New York and New England, just to mention a few.

This is not just the saga of Jimmy the Riddle. It's the story of the making, or unmaking, of a world power.

Ann Landers

Kissing with Braces Can Cause Quite an Entanglement

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know how it is up North, but in Alabama it is considered very bad manners to blow one's nose in public. I'm sure you are aware that Southerners are noted for their couth and refinement.

I was reared to be a lady. I did not hear the sound of nose-blowing until I was in high school. (It was a rude boy who had moved to Prattville from Illinois.) Now it seems that whereever I go I hear people go "honk, honk, honk" — like a pack of geese.

I know there are times when one must wipe his nose but it seems to me that when a person needs to blow, he can excuse himself. Expecially in a restaurant. I don't know of a single decent eating place in this country that doesn't have a bathroom where a person could go to perform this delicate act. Print his letter, please, Ann. Perhaps public nose-blowers don't know how they appear to refined, well-reared folks. — Gone With The Wind

Dear Gone: I agree that people ought not to go "honk, honk" in dining rooms, but muted blow-wipe, if done inobtrusively should not undo you so completely. Your excessive sensitivity to nose-blowing suggests that perhaps your mother was scared by a handkerchief.

Dear Ann: I'd like to comment on the woman who said she was ready to resign from the human race because so many men had made passes at her for no eartly reason. She described herself as "plain, overweight, a home-loving type, who had never given any man an iota of encouragement." Yet the delivery boy made eyes at her, the TV-repair man kissed her on the back of the neck and the minister grabbed her in the middle of a political conversation.

I know the type so well. I have danced with them at the Club and noticed that they move in a most provocative fashion. I have caught their glances in a crowded room. They ask for a light at dinner parties -- and hold my hand steady a moment too long. Their little quips are often tripleedged, and they look so innocent -- as if they don't know what they are saying. These women are indeed sending out coded messages, as you suggested. Men who wish to break the code know how to do so. Those who are not interested simply pretend not to get the signals. So you were right again, as usual. I hope "Mrs. Ready To Resign" got YOUR Message. — R.D.F.

Dear R.: If she didn't get mine, I'm sure she got yours. It came through loud and clear. Thanks for improving on my original statement.

DearAnn Landers: I am a 15-year-old girl and am very mature for my age. I could pass for 17 both physically and mentally. The problem is I wear braces on my teeth. The boy I like a lot also wears braces. I know he wants to kiss me, and I want to let him, but I once read in your column about two kids who wore braces. They kissed and the braces got hooked together and it was very embarassing.

Dear Donna: Carefully.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Sex -- Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Woman Attempting to Break Series of World Records

LONDON (AP) — British air ace Sheila Scott flew off today in a 34,000-mile attempt to break a series of world records as a human guinea pig for the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The flight will take her around the world 1½ times. She said her wardrobe ranges from a bikini for the tropics to three layers of clothing under an orange survival suit for polar flying.

Miss Scott, 43, hopes to become the first pilot to fly from equator to equator over the North Pole in a light plane.

The propeller plane was loaded with black boxes to register and radio heartbeat, body temperature and other data direct to NASA continuously during the flight.

Soon after takeoff for Benghazi and Nai robi the plan was linked to the American satellite Nimbus so it could relay all of the pilot's physical reactions to a ground station in Fairbanks, Alaska, for transmission to NASA's computer center in Maryland.

"I'm not sure I want everyone to know how scared I am," Miss Scott said before takeoff. "I'm very pleased that they have given this opportunity to a British woman."

Sheila has a lot at stake, including nearly all the financial load of the flight. She had a joke-card pasted to her instrument panel in front of her: "I must be successful. I owe everybody".

The Piper Aztec, "Mythre," is a successor to her single-engine Pipe Comanche, "Myth Too," in which she flew around the world.

From Nairobi she will turn around and fly to Tromsoe, Norway, for the takeoff across the North Pole.

This part of her trip has been criticized by aviation authorities who say her navigational equipment—a simply gyroscope—is inadequate for the polar flight.

"It's going to be dicey. But I've got to try," Sheila said.

Old Romance Renewed

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A romance which ended with a platonic goodbye kiss some time ago has resumed in earnest and there may be a marriage soon.

The bride-to-be is 76, her beau 79.

Thomas B. Thompson of Augusta, Kan., stepped briskly off a jetliner Friday and into the arms of Emma Haston of San Diego. They had kissed each other goodbye nearly 60 years ago.

"Blaine," she said tenderly as they embraced.

It is a name he'll have to get used to again. For the past 53 years he has been known as Jack, a businessman in Augusta, a small city each of Wichita, Kan.

Mrs. Haston remembered their last kiss as teen-agers.

"I didn't think about marriage," she said, "and Blaine did not have any money to get married on."

But she always remembered the hard working young man who played with the band in Judsonia, their hometown in Arkansas, and who visited with her family whether he had a date with her or not.

He married in 1914 and moved to Kansas where his wife, Ida, died two years ago.

Mrs. Haston married Percy Robertson in 1915 and moved to San Diego where for years they ran a bakery. Robertson died in 1947 and five years later she married the late Arth Haston, a contractor.

"I never thought I'd marry a third time," she said.

Thompson and her former sweetheart exhanged Christmas cards over the years. A note she wrote on one kindled his interest. In 1969 he learned she was a widow and she learned he was a widower.

There were more letters and last September a decision was made.

"I was to dispose of my interests in Kansas and come out here and ask her to marry me," said a beaming Thompson. "I'm here now and I'm going to ask her."

And he thinks he knows what the answer may be, he added. She has made arrangements with her church for a June wedding.

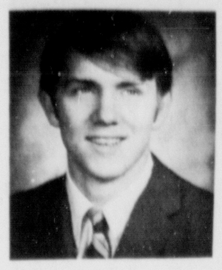
SHS Baseballers Honored

Don Miller



David Hackney

Four Sikeston high school baseball players were honored by being named to the Southeast Missouri conference baseball team as selected by coaches of the member schools.

Don Miller, the Bulldogs ace righthanded pitcher, drew first team recognition with his 10-1 season record for SHS. He led the Dogs to the regionals of the state high school baseball tournament before losing to periennial state champion, St. Louis Lafayette.

Joining Don on the first team was outfielder David Hackney. David hit .310 for the season and had a perfect fielding percentage.

Rounding out the Bulldogs selections were Bob Blankenship as one of three second team pitchers and John Vines as the second team's shortstop. Bob was 3-2 on the year and John hit .275.

Cape Central dominated the selections with five players being named to the first team and six to the second. The Bengals won the league with Sikeston placing second.

Brock Stopped, Cards Roll On

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Atlanta's George Stone stopped Lou Brock's hitting streak Monday night but paid penance for the deed in a 3-2 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Stone, who halted Brock's streak at 26 games, was unable to get past Jose Cardenal, in the eighth inning.

"I just knew I had to stay after him," said Cardenal, who had been retired three times previously by Stone.

"He got Brock, which made me feel bad, but I knew we had other fellows on the team to pick us up. I think all the time I can hit him, and I'm just happy to win the game."

Cardenal's hit, his seventh game-winning blow of the season, finished out the Cardinals' month of May at 19-6, the hottest pace in the National League.

It also gave the Cardinals a 12-2 record for a spectacular home stand and a 2½-game lead in the NL East heading into a series opening tonight at Pittsburgh.

"I never have followed him well," said Brock in respect to Stone pitches which retired him on strikes twice and on ground balls twice.

"All I can say is the streak was fun while it lasted," added the 30-year-old outfielder, whose streak began April 30 against Montreal.

Run-scoring singles by Henry Aaron and Orlando Cepeda capped a four-hit barrage during the inning and produced a 2-2 tie until Torre doubled and Cardenal singled in the eighth.

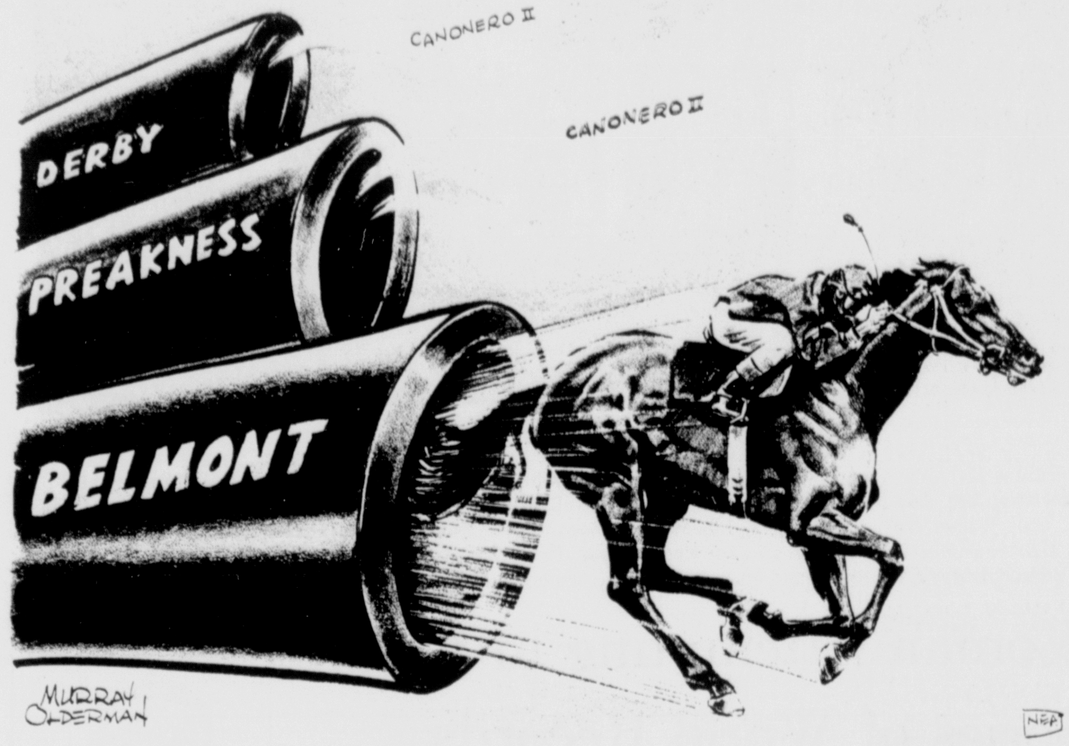
FINAL BURST TO GLORY



Bold Reasoning Tops Jersey Derby

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Bold Reasoning won the $134,400 Jersey Derby Monday but his trainer still feels the unbeaten colt isn't ready for the 1½ mile Belmont Stakes.

"Not a chance," said Trainer Nick Gonzales when asked if Bold Reasoning would be supplemented for the June 5 Belmont and a shot at Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner Canonero II.

"He (Bold Reasoning) has just come out of a tough race and he deserves a rest. There isn't a chance we'll put him in the Belmont."

Bold Reasoning, winning his seventh straight race, had no trouble in his first run around two turns and more than a mile as he beat P. Cacador by half a length in the 1⅛ mile Jersey at Garden State Park.

Ridden by jockey Jacinto Vasquez, Bold Reasoning was never worse than third. He took the lead with one sixteenth to go and outgamed October House Farms Pass Catcher in an exciting stretch duel.

Bold Reasoning went off the even money favorite and returned $4 to those who backed him in a closing day crowd of 40,020.

The son of Boldnesian-Reason To Earn raced the 1⅛ miles in 1:49 3-5 over a track listed as good after an all night rain that lasted into early afternoon. He beat a field of seven at equal weight of 126 pounds.

At Belmont, where 60,147 wagered $6,844,880, Tunex, $10.20, charged down the middle of the stretch and beat Protanto by a fingertip in the $121,600 Metropolitan Handicap.

Divide and Rule, $5, won the Lakeside Handicap at Hollywood where 62,383 bet $5,527,785, a California state record.

Mr. Pow Pow, $5.40, scored in the North Shore Handicap at Arlington Park and Damage Control, $26,80, won the Oakland Handicap at Golden Gate Fields.

Our Cheri Amour, $6.20, and Alma North, $6, won the split divisions of the Open Fire Stakes at Delaware Park and Who Behave, $9, captured the Tomasello Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

150 Enter Atlanta Classic

ATLANTA (AP)--The record field of 150 for the fifth annual Atlanta Golf Classis is complete.

Red Curl and Terry Wilcox led a field of 35 qualifiers for the tournament Monday, sharing medal honors with five-under-par 67s at the Atlanta Country Club.

A field of 112 hopefuls shot for the 35 available positions. It took a par 72 or better to qualify.

Jack Nicklaus, current PGA champion and winner of three tournaments this year, leads the classic field which tees off Thursday. Gary Player also is in the field for the $125,000 event.

A celebrity pro-am gets the action started Wednesday.

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — Gene Whipp of Kettering, Ohio, piloted his 7-litre Hydroplane "Heavy Hauler" to victory Monday in the feature race of the Lake Decatur Memorial Day Water Festival.

Q—How did the prairie schooners receive their name?

A—They were called by that name because at a distance the white awnings that covered the wagons looked like a fleet of sailing ships with all canvas spread.

Lafayette Repeats

SPRINGFIELD--St. Louis Lafayette became only the fourth team in the 22-year-history of the Missouri State High School baseball tournament to win back to back championships.

The Lancers toppled Joplin Memorial 4-2 Saturday at Meador Park to claim the coveted crown for the second straight year. It was also the third straight year for the St. Louis team to be in the final.

Lafayette has eliminated Sikeston in regional play the past two seasons, 5-0 and 8-3.

The Missouri State Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association selected the All-State teams after Friday's semi-finals. Five Southeast Missourians were honored among the top 20. Two 10 player teams were selected.

Canonero II News

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP)--The name Canonero II is all right for a horse, but not for a child.

Cruz Paredes, a farmer, tried to name his baby boy after the Venezuelan-owned winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness. But a Merida state clerk rejected his request, saying the name wasn't fit for a child.

Paredes than changed his son's name to Gustavo Franklin Paredes, after Gustavo Avila, the jockey who rode Canonero II.

Trainer Juan Arias paraded the winner of the Kentucky Derby and The Preakness around the tree-lined paddock to get him used to his new surroundings under race conditions. The colt showed no nervousness as he walked around with his ears pricked to the applause of the spectators.

"He is a fit horse," said Arias who discounted again that Canonero is bothered by a skin rash and an infected right hind hoof.

Veterinarians who have examined the colt say the rash is "no consequence and is clearing up" and that the infection "is minor and has responded to treatment."

Meantime, owner Pedro Baptista denied a report from Caracas that he had sold Canonero II to an American syndicate for $4 million.

Oklahoma State Signs Joplin Star

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)--Joe Eberhard, a shortstop from Joplin, Mo., has been signed to a Big Eight Letter of intent by Oklahoma State University.

Eberhardt collected a .379 batting average by leading his team into the Missouri state high school baseball finals last weekend. He had 22 hits, 18 runs and 16 runs batted in.

Eberhardt is the fourth player to sign this season with OSU.

ROME (AP) — Joe Frazier, a better gate-attraction as a slugger than a singer, brought his singing group, the Knockouts, here to show the Italians that his voice is as powerful as his punches.

Frazier, undefeated world heavyweight champion who has drawn less crowds than expected in his singing tour of Europe, said Monday that singing is no less demanding than boxing.

"I burn more energy singing than boxing," he said. "That's how I keep my weight down."

NEW TOUCH

When the First National Bank of Chicago completes its plaza between Dearborn and Clark Streets along Monroe where the former bank building stood, a dramatic fountain spouting a 30-inch square column of water 18 feet high will be turned on in 1972, beautifying the area beside its new 60-story building.

Robertson H. Short Jr., vice-president in charge of the bank building, said the "water column" will be inside a 45-foot square pool. He said the column idea has only been used in one other fountain, in Dallas, but it is not as large as that planned for the First National.

Nine adjacent columns of water created by a large number of water jets, instead of a loose spray, will form what appears to be a solid square column of water.

Three wind gauges will control the height of the column, reducing pedestrian spraying by strong gusts of wind.

Durocher Admits

PITTSBURGH (AP)-Leo Durocher won't deny that his days as manager of the Chicago Cubs may be numbered.

"I've been in this game a long time," he said Monday after the Cubs lost 6-0 to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"There is no manager who is not vulnerable. And when the time comes—today, tomorrow, next week or next year—when it happens, am I going to be a baby about something like that?

"That's a lot of bull.

"If anybody wants to know what's going to happen, have him call Mr. Wrigley the team owner or Mr. Holland team vice president."

The Cubs have now lost 10 of their last 13 games, have been shut out two games straight by the Pirates—Monday by Steve Blass who scattered five hits—and are hurting because of injuries and a weak bullpen which has picked up only one save all season.

"You put the eight best men on the field," said the 64-year-old Durocher, in his sixth year with the Cubs. "You can't go out and pick up the ball for them.

"I know one thing. They're trying, giving 100 per cent. That's all I ask of anybody. There's no blame to put on anyone."

Nicklaus, Caponi Set Golf Figures

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Amateur golfers across the nation have targets of par and one under par to shoot at for competition concluding June 14 in the National Golf Day charity.

Those standards were set Monday by burly PGA Champion Jack Nicklaus and Women's Open Queen Donna Caponi in a challenge to Warson Country Club's sprawling course.

Nicklaus, admittedly rusty after a three-week layoff from the golf tour, scrambled back over the final nine holes to shoot 36-36—72 and beat Englishman Tony Jacklin's 33-41— 74.

Miss Caponi, whose putting was picturesque, compiled a 3439—73 in bettering the 40-38—78 round turned in by ladies' PGA Champion Shirley Englehorn.

Nicklaus' round was one over par 35-36—71 for Warson's 7,200-yard course, while Miss Caponi's round from shortened women's tees matched ladies' par of 36-37—73.

Amateurs, in order to qualify for key rings and accolades, must fire under the scores with the aid of their handicaps.

"I hope I can play myself into shape before the U.S. Open," said Nicklaus, who missed a 14-inch putt at No. 10 on Monday before capitalizing on a sour Jacklin streak.

Jacklin was four up beginning No. 11 but double bogeyed the hole as well as No. 12 while Nicklaus put together a birdie and par.

Nicklaus' last competition was at the Byron Nelson Golf Classic in Dallas three weeks ago. The blond blaster plans to play in the Atlanta Golf Classic this week before appearing in exhibitions prior to the June 1720 open in Ardmore, Pa.

"I never had such a putting round," said the pert Miss Caponi, whose round included six birdies, three bogeys and two double bogeys.

Miss Caponi shot into a water hazard at No. 12 and sailed her tee shot into a tree at No. 13 for the two-over-par holes.

But she was never seriously challenged after Miss Englehorn double bogeyed the second hole and made the turn six strokes behind.

Miss Caponi's round included a drive on the par three, 200yard third hole to within 13 inches of the cup. She sank putts of 15, 12, 16 and eight feet.

The Warson course, playing 6,500 yards for women off shortened tees, is the site for Sept. 16-18 Ryder Cup matches between the United States and Britain.

Both Nicklaus and Jacklin expect to return. "It will be a fine course for it," Nicklaus said.

Can More Campus Tragedies Be Averted?

THE REPORT OF THE RESIDENT'S COMMISSION ON CAMPUS UNREST
William C. Scranton, Chairman
(A Discus Book M105/ $1.95/540pp.)

Can more campus tragedies be averted? It was this pressing question that prompted President Nixon, in the wake of the killings at Kent State University and Jackson State College to appoint a Commission, headed by William W. Scranton, to investigate the causes of campus violence.

Here is the controversial report of that Commission, which met for the first time on June 25, 1970, and during the next three months conducted 13 days of public hearings in Washington, D.C.; Los Angeles, California; Jackson, Mississippi; and Kent, Ohio; and met 15 times in executive session. The Discus paperback edition, to be published by Avon on May 20th, includes the complete text and photographs of the Commission Report.

The Report explores the history and causes of campus unrest and contains recommendations for the President, the Government, for law enforcement agencies, for the university, the students, and the public at large.

The Commission recognizes campus unrest as a "fact of life," an "expression of intellectual restlessness" which "prompts the search for truth." Nevertheless, the Report states, "When campus unrest takes the form of violence and disruptive protest, it must be met with firm and just response," and the Commission includes recommendations for what those responses should be in its Report.

THE REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT'S COMMISSION ON CAMPUS UNREST embodies an urgent plea for reconciliation among Americans. In an opening, "Note to the American People" the Report urges, Violence must end.

Understanding must be renewed.

All Americans must come to see each other not as symbols or stereotypes but as human beings.

On a hopeful note, the Report observes, "We share the impatience of those who call for change. We believe there is still time and opportunity to achieve change. We believe we can still fulfill our shared national commitment to peace, justice, decency, equality and the celebration of human life....We must start. All of us....Our recommendations are directed toward this end."

To The Editor
Sikeston Daily Standard
Sikeston, Missouri
Dear Editor,

One of the saddest mistakes our country has been making for the last 26 years has been the trading with Communist countries. They are our enemies! We have continued trading with them and the only thing we have received in return are: THE BERLIN WAR, MISSALS IN CUBA, THE CONQUEST OF CHINA, ARMS BUILDUP, VIETNAM WAR, MIDDLE EAST UNREST, plus countless other "pain in the necks".

Recently THE STATE DEPARTMENT has cancelled trading with Rhodesia on the grounds that "Rhodesia oppresses its Blacks by a white regime. We were trading with Rhodesia, Chromiun Ore which is vital for the production of jet aircraft engines. Now we are buying the same product from Russia at $65 a ton, twice the price paid to Rhodesia! Unfortunately Rhodesia now sells its supply of the precious ore to Russia where we bought it from.

I recommend that all good citizens reading this letter write to their Representative Bill Burlison at Washington, D.C. at 1313 Longsworth Bldg., and tell him to support H.R. 5445 a bill introducted by Jim Collins (DEM.-TEX.) which would restore trade to Rhodesia.

Everyone should do their part!

Sincerely,
Timothy P. O'Herin

Symington to Call for Secret Session on Laos

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington says he will call for a secret Senate session so members can learn the full story behind "the long and tragic war" in Laos.

The Missouri Democrat announced his intentions in a speech Friday night to the Harvard Faculty Club.

After a secret session Dec. 15, 1969, the Senate voted 80 to 9 to prohibit the use of U.S. ground combat troops in Laos or Thailand.

Any senator can demand and obtain a secret session if seconded by another senator, a Senate official said.

Before the Senate appropriates any more money for Laos operations, Symington said, senators should be informed about "additional military developments" in that Southeast Asian nation.

He said a report by two Foreign Relations Committee staffers, describing Central Intelligence Agency funding of 4,800 Thai troops fighting in northern Laos, "shows conclusively that the people, as well as most of their congressional representatives, have little or no knowledge of the long and tragic war being conducted in that country; and therefore even less knowledge of the amount of money involved."

Symington, who serves on the Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees, said both Congress and the administration have lost control of the defense budget.

The dividend is payable June 30 to stockholders of record June 11.

The board also declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.20 per share on preferred stock payable June 30 to stockholders of record June 11.

He previously served at Phan Rang AB, Vietnam.

The sergeant graduated in 1955 from Sikeston High School. His wife is the former Maria Marian from Spain.

Five Injured On Highways

Five were injured in three traffic mishaps in the six-county Bootheel over the Memorial Day holiday weekend.

At 5:10 p.m. Saturday on highway 51 near the north city limits of Puxico, a 1966 Ford going south, driven by Paul W. Hoefler, 28, of St. Louis, went out of control on a curve, the highway patrol said, and overturned.

The driver sustained cuts and bruises and was taken to Lucy Lee hospital in Poplar Bluff. He was charged with careless driving.

At 8:25 p.m. Saturday on route 153 in Gideon, a 1970 Ford pickup truck traveling north, driven by Martin Weaver, 35, of Peach Orchard, ran off the road, hit a utility pole, a house, and two parked cars, the patrol said.

Weaver sustained a neck injury and was taken to Dunklin county Memorial hospital in Kennett.

The house and two cars hit by Weaver are owned by Vernon Stein of Gideon.

Two and a half miles east of Charleston at 2:52 p.m. Monday on highway 62, a 1959 Chevrolet truck going east, driven by Ray Rodgers, 18, of Charleston, was turning left, the patrol said, and was struck in the rear by an eastbound 1971 GMC pickup driven by Ernest J. Chaney Jr., 42, of Bastrop, Miss.

Rodgers was charged with failure to signal.

Dwight Morris, 19, of Charleston, a passenger in the Chevrolet, sustained a cut finger. Another passenger in the Chevrolet, Orlando Cratt, 32, of Charleston, had minor injuries.

Edgar McAlexander, 54, of Greenville, Miss., a passenger in the GMC, sustained minor injuries.

Particularly needed are children's clothes in the following sizes: Girls, 12 years, 6, 5 and 2 years; boys, 8, 11 and 14 years. Mrs. Ross wears size 22½ clothing, and Mr. Ross, who suffered a stroke last September, needs size 40 trousers and 16 shirts.

Fire Damages Residence

EAST PRAIRIE -- The home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reeves was damaged by fire at 12:15 a.m. Wednesday and Fire Chief Kenneth Carter said that the entire home was heavily damaged by smoke.

According to Mrs. Reeves, she was staying the night at the Sikeston Hospital with her granddaughter, and her husband was at the home alone. He woke up smelling smoke and went to call the fire department; the phone was out of order so he drove to a neighbor.s home and made the call.

The fire apparently started in the attic area of the home.

Mr. an Mrs. Reeves moved into the home, 2½ miles southeast of East Prairie, about a year ago and had done remodeling. It was the former home of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Adkisson.

Some people lauded as the toast of the town turn out to be pretty crumby.

Democrats' Cornucopia

'72 Losers Paw Paths of Gold

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)

For the Democratic party, 1971 is unique. Never before have so many presidential candidates with so little hold on the voters been able to get so much early money for traveling and organizing on an ambitious scale.

Sen. Birch Bayh shows a bare one per cent Democratic support in a national poll, yet he has the biggest political staff of all, travels widely, sends roses and throws champagne breakfasts. He won't say, but he could be spending upwards of $750,000 this year.

Iowa's Sen. Harold Hughes, another member of the one per cent club, doesn't travel as often as young Mr. Roller Skates from Indiana. But he does get about, and he's enlarging his political operation.

Hawkish Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington isn't taken too seriously as a prospect, except maybe in the South and in limited northern quarters. That doesn't seem to prevent him from moving around constantly. He has had five visits cross-continent to California. The senator is riding on a fat two per cent poll showing.

With his five per cent and his declared candidacy, Sen. George McGovern is a little more plausible. It's still remarkable, though, that he can find the money to fuel his very high-paced 1971 effort.

Now, it doesn't violate objectivity to say most of these men are bound to be losers in 1972. Indeed, most won't get very far at all. So, how come some Democratic money types are financing a bunch of losers in such high style?

A high proportion of these angels can be found among New York and California liberals. They want candidates with a strong commitment against the Vietnam war. They want men who will knock wire-tapping and call, every hour on the hour, for the firing of J. Edgar Hoover.

McGovern gets those who like his "I was first against the war." He also runs daily against J. Edgar. The fat cats who want the deep voice look to Harold Hughes, who has the organ tones, the big chest measurements for a commanding presidential figure, and a little of the whiff of a believable dark horse about him.

As the junior dragon who slew the Supreme Court nomination of southerners G. Harrold Carswell and Clement Haynsworth, Birch Bayh of Indiana makes it with people who are grateful or who like his gymnasium energy.

Given the free-wheeling nature of the Democratic party, it is wholly predictable that the restless Left should be casting about for someone other than either Old Face Hubert Humphrey or Old Face's 1968 running mate, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine.

Nevertheless, the party faces the serious question whether liberals' financial indulgence in the present variety of choices is not a luxury which Democrats challenging President Nixon in 1972 can ill afford.

Everybody has heard by now that it is going to cost an individual candidate at least $10 million to $12 million to campaign full-scale up through the nominating convention. To get the nominee to voting day in November may take two or three times that much.

The money wells being tapped today are not ever-flowing. Some of them could run dry next year just when the Democrats need them most. And with the party still necktied by a $9.3 million debt from 1968, its credit wouldn't buy lunchtime hamburgers for a campaign staff.

The Democrats' long spring-training roster of candidates surely support reformers' hopes for open-party competition. Trouble is, it's so open the money is running out at both ends. The unprecedented outlays for losers by fat cats in fantasyland are simply unbelievable.

Car Hits Child Near School

CHARLESTON-- Sarah Burke, 15, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Burke was struck by a 1965 Ford sedan driven by Miss Dolly Rogers, 16, of Wyatt May 21 at 3:20 p.m., in front of the Warren E. Hearnes School on Plant Street.

Sarah had gotten out of a car to cross the street to get into another car when she apparently stepped in front of the oncoming car. She sustained bruises and scratches of the face and two front teeth were knocked out. She received treatment in the emergency room at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston where she remained overnight and was released.

Two Arrests For Following Too Closely

CHARLESTON -- An accident involving two cars and one pickup truck occurred Monday, May 24 at 3:30 p.m., on East Marshall street.

Police said Archibald O'Hara, 310 West Commercial St., driving a 1963 Oldsmobile traveling west on East Marshall, slowed down and was struck in the rear by a 1968 Chevrolet pickup driven by Claud Housman, 908 West Marshall St.

Michael Hart, of Charleston, driving a 1966 Ford sedan also traveling west hit the Housman truck in the rear. No one was hurt.

According to police Housman and Hart were given citations for following too closely.

'Good Old Days' Weren't That Good

The writer is magistrate and probate judge of Callaway County, Missouri.

By Hugh P. Williamson

FULTON, Mo. — More and more, as social pressures increase, and to escape from present realities which are often unpleasant, people tend to cast their minds back into a past which they picture as being always bathed in sunlight, idyllic, a time when perfect happiness was unfailing.

These nostalgic flights of imagination back to a condition which never existed may give some pleasure, which is good, but I believe that they also greatly increase our dissatisfaction with the present, and that the unrest which results far outwiighs the satisfactions. It is to give a realistic account of the past that these observations are made, in the hope of increasing our contentment with the present.

Let us consider the area of health. In 1911, when statistics were first kept, the average length of life in the U. S. was 52 years. In 1967 it was 70 years. In 1911, out of every 1,000 babies born, 95 died before they reached the age of 1 year. In 1969, only 21 in every 1,000 died. In 1911, for every 10,000 babies who were born, 77 mothers died in childbirth. In 1969 this figure was 1.9.

The farther back we go in time the shorter the span of life becomes, the greater the increase in infant and in mother mortality. The old braveyards in this country are filled with gravestones which tell the sad story of a young woman who died in childbirth, with her child. And the fine gains that have been made in this area increase each year. Surely these trends are very splendid things.

People a hundred years ago, and less, were subject to recurrent plagues which swept away thousands. Among these were malaria, typhoid fever, yellow fever, pneumonia, smallpox and tuberculosis, not to mention the childhood diseases such as measles, croup, whooping cough and scarlet fever. Of these, tuberculosis was probably greatest and most constant killer. There were few families one or more of whose members did not have this dread disease.

And practically all of these diseases were incurable because medical science, until 50 years ago was comparatively powerless. Indeed, the sick person who did not fall into the hands of a doctor probably had a better chance of living than one who did. In those times there were no hospitals, no facilities whatever for the care of the sick or women in childbirth. As the above statistics show, these conditions have wholly changed, and all for the better, much, much better.

Stiffling Boredom

If a person living today could be transported back 75 or 100 years he would be bored to extinction. A large part of the population was rural, all transportation was by horse-drawn vehicles, all roads were dirt and were largely untended.. Only a few homes had any books, or reading material of any kind, since rural free delivery of mail did not begin until 1896. There was literally no recreation except hunting and fishing for men and boys, when there was time for it, which was very seldom.

The most thrilling event in the lives of these people was an occasional trip to the nearest town, usually on Saturday afternoons. And this, by modern standards, was extremely tame and had many drawbacks. The hundreds of horses which crowded the street of towns and cities in this country kept the street littered.

And riding in a horse-drawn vehicle was not exactly a bed of roses. In the summer there was little protection from the intense heat and choking dust, or from the intense cold of winter and the teeth-rattling jolts caused by frozen ruts.

And such travel was slow. This writer estimates that he sat in a buggy for at least 1,200 hours going from his home in the country to high school five miles away for a 4-year period. A waste of time and very boring . Todaythe people who live on our old farm make the same trip in seven or eight minutes, warm in winter and cool in summer, over a hard, smooth road.

And there was the further fact that in thousands of instances horses were underfed, over-worked and generally terribly abused. All of this happily has passed away, gone with the manure, the flies and the abominations they caused. These are wonderful improvements over "the good old days."

But there was little time for relaxation or pleasure, even if there had been means available for it. All work was done by hand because there were no machines. The farm workday began before daylight in the morning and continued until after dark. And the labor was exhausting, taking a great toll of physical and emotional energy. The physical hand-to-hand struggle of the farmer and laborer with his environment was never-ending except in the most severe winter weather. Today the farm is a machine operator, usually working only eight or nine hours a day.

Scant Education

Education, with all of the avenues of pleasure which it opens to people, was but scant. Into the one-room country schools of this nation there would crowd 40 to 50 children ranging in age from 5 or 6 to 20. The building was always crowded to the point of suffocation. The teacher faced an impossible task of trying to hold sufficient classes to give all of these pupils some learning. Usually very little was imparted. And the education thus received was all that the great majority of pupils ever got, since few of them went any farther.

Today there are very few children who do not receive at least a high school education, and each year millions of others enter the colleges and universities of our country. A very great gain indeed in this area.

Highway 25 Work May Be Let in 1971

MALDEN — Contracts to resurface Highway 25 from south of Dexter to White Oak are expected to be let late this year, according to W. H. Shaw, Chief Engineer, Missouri State Highway Department, Division 10, Sikeston.

The Chief Engineer spoke to the Rotary Club Tuesday at noon and presented a program on the Inter City, Inter Regional highway program which is Missouri's proposed new 12-year highway program. He also answered questions about the program and in particular about Highway 25, however, he did not go into detail about Highway 25 because he will appear before a meeting of the Malden Chamber of Commerce in June and will discuss Highway 25 in detail at that time.

Although the contracts calling for the resurfacing and shoulder work along Highwav 25 should be let later in the year, we hope the funds will be available for the job next year, he stated.

Highway 25 is still in the departments 5-year plan but if the new 12-year highway program is passed it will mean more improvements. According to a map shown during the program, Highway 53 and 25 would be improved to a modern 2-lane roadway in the 12-year period and possibly a 4-lane within the next 12 years.

The new program includes about 1850 miles of divided highways; about 350 miles of ultimate four - lane highways, with two lanes during the program and right of way purchased for four lanes where new construction is required.

Twelve major river and lake crossings (bridges) are also included along with improvement of roads within the St. Louis and Kansas City areas.

Financing of the new program could be done with a two-cents -a -gallon hike in the motor vehicle fuel tax; revised registration fees to a flat $25 per car and increases in registration and license fees and a bond issue of $460 million. The bond issue would allow us to do the job quicker and would assure the work being done, he stated.

Missouri has 32,000 miles of highways which cost about $70 million annually to maintain. Sixty per cent of the system was built 30 years ago. Cost of building roads has skyrocketed, according to the speaker. between 1959 and 1970 costs have gone up 67%. We now operate on a fixed financial basis which gives us only money to maintain our roads and hardly nothing for needed improvements.

"We need the tax increase and bond issue together to get the job done in 12 years," Shaw said. We are not keeping up with the demands of traffic with the present level of financing. Cost of the new 12-year program would cost the average motorist about six cents a day.

TRADITION AND CHANGE IN AFRICAN TRIBAL LIFE
by Colin M. Turnbull
(A Camelot Book ZN97/.95/224pp.)

There is no such place as Africa and no such person as an African. So, paradoxically, noted anthropologist Colin M. Turnbull opens his Camelot book, TRADITION AND CHANGE IN AFRICAN TRIBAL LIFE.

The continent that we call Africa, explains the author, is divided into many different nations, some separated by thousands of miles. Each nation is again divided into tribal areas, nearly all of which speak a different language, live a different way of life, and believe in a different form of religion. Furthermore, whereas within Europe there is a free exchange of ideas between the people of various countries, in Africa people living in one part of the country are unlikely even to have heard about the people living in other parts of the vast continent. "So," observes the author, "saying that someone is an African does not tell us very much!"

To "get rid of those old misunderstandings about tribal ways... and understand better the great changes that are taking place in Africa today," to help the reader see how tribal Africans look at the world, Dr. Turnbull examines the life styles of four very different tribes. Through his text and abundant photographs, the author traces the widening circles of life from the self-centered infant to the independent young person, then to the adult who takes responsibility for others, and finally the wise old man, concerned with morality and religion.

Weather Man Cooperates for Lake Reopening

CRUMP, Mo. (AP)--The weather and the State Conservation Commission were working together today for fishermen in southeastern Missouri.

Lake Girardeau, which was closed two years ago for a draw-down of water, was re-opened for fishing this morning by the conservation agency. Heavy rainfall early in the day was expected to boost the first-day catch.

The lake was closed to allow removal of plant growth. It was then restocked with 28,000 catfish, more than 800 bass, 40,000 red ear and 37,000 blue gill.

A spokesman for the conservation commission said today that a recent check of the restocked fish in Lake Girardeau show they have grown considerably.

Merry Memoirs Of a Former Actress

MYSELF AMONG OTHERS By Ruth Gordon. Atheneum. $10

Any time anyone asks what theatrical glamor is, tell them about Ruth Gordon. Coming up on 75 she is, 56 of those years all over several continents as an actress, bon mot collector and celebrity connoisseur. Now she's put it all together. Well, most of it.

With crackling gusto and good nature, Miss Gordon has assembled, either from a frighteningly exact memory of those bulging files she shares with Garson Kanin, her husband, a rattling fine anecdotage about how it was and is. The stories are gossipy fun but more noteworthy is the spirit of buoyant vitality that permeates every page.

No neatly chronological narrator, the star tells about her own start with Maude Adams, the hits, flops and that latest movie role in "Where's Poppa?" with hop-skip abandon. Yet never is the sequence hard to follow, especially if you take the book in short sections.

In her merry memorabilia, the Algonquin wits are back smartly, the international set from Maugham to Olivier turn out, and in between are all sorts of wispy non-sequitur asides.

NOISES ABOUT THE CONCORDE

The Soviet Union has announced that its supersonic passenger plane, the Tupolev 144, will be flown out of the Soviet Union for the first time to appear at the Paris International Air Show opening Thursday (May 27). The Anglo-French Concorde SST also will be on display.

LONDON — "Sometime, someday, public opinion will finally say 'no'" to the supersonic transport, protests the Guardian editorially. "And if that point comes now it will be a victory for civilized values." On the other side of the fence, MP Anthony Wedgewood Been, the former Labor minister of technology, argues that the Anglo-French Concorde is going to be quieter than existing subsonic passenger jets when it enters commercial use in 1974. "Genuine passions for a higher quality of life," said Benn, "are not matched by realism."

Thus the argument is joined in Britain between those who believe that the Concorde will be an "environmental monstrosity," and those whom the magazine Flight International says must be shown that the Concorde is a "social animal with respect to pollution, be it by smoke, noise, or induced climate changes." This leading industry journal added: "There is no convincing any of the 'people who like daisies,' as the environmentalists have been called, that aviation has improved society more than it has impoverished it."

It is not anticipated that the Concorde will ever be permitted to create sonic booms over populated land masses. The likelihood is that if the concorde would be too noisy for American airports on takeoff it would also be banned from Britain.

CONCORDE'S BATTLE with the environmentalists began well before it ever took to the air. Three weeks before the maiden flight in 1969, a group calling itself "The Anti-Concorde Project" attacked the allegedly harmful effects of the plane's supersonic boom, its ground noise, and the noxious influences on the atmosphere.

Although 17 bills currently before state legislatures in America would prohibit SST noise and air pollution, the British Aircraft Corporation believes that its bird is within the range of noise produced by current subsonic jets. Thus any regulation which catches the supersonic craft also would affect existing fleets.

One measure before the New York State legislature lays down that any aircraft producing more than 108 decibels would be considered to generate "excessive noise." As the Boeing 747 is exactly at that 108 decibel ceiling, Anthony Wedgewood Benn told Editorial Research Reports in London that he was convinced the New York bill was "impracticable -- it would close down Kennedy Airport."

THE BRITISH have been encouraged by the comments in London of the Chief of the U. S. Federal Aviation Administration, John Schaffer. He said that tremendous progress was being made to reduce exhaust fumes "and I think that between now and 1974 they will make some significant progress with noise suppression." The conviction that these problems could be overcome as reflected in an April 22 production order when France and Britain agreed to produce four more Concordes.

Schaffer told the British that even if New York airports were closed to the Concorde, Dulles Airport in Washington which is owned and operated by the FAA, would permit the plane to land. Meanwhile it is likely that Russia's supersonic Tupolev 144 will be in service long before its Anglo-French cousin is flying commercially. As Nigel Calder noted in the New Statesman: "The townsfolk of Omsk or Tomsk are not likely, on the fact of it, to stage sit-in protests in the local Aeroflot offices about the sonic boom."

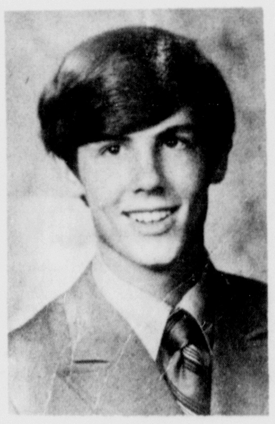
Seniors Have Power To Open New Windows



"OPEN A NEW WINDOW," a song from Sikeston Little Theatre's recent musical "Mame," holds a message many seniors should heed.

The world holds many regards for those who are bold enough to try their hand at introducing a new idea. Much more satisfaction can be gained by turning potential energy into kinetic energy and launching the idea with confidence.

Seniors have gone through 12 years of schooling to give them the background knowledge to accomplish greatness, to move on to more profound achievements. Many seniors will go on to college for the additional education that is demanded in the affluent nation.

More than ever before in history, education is necessary to begin to cope with problems of the magnitude the peoples of the world are facing. Ignorance is nearly intolerable for educational opportunities are open to all.

With graduation just three days away, the senior class must begin to prepare for the world they must face. Many seniors will continue to do as they have--doing only what is expected of them.Some will try just hard enough to be the victor over competitors. Fewer still will be the group that will give all they have to a cause they feel is worthy.

Courage is the main ingredient in these leaders, these innovators-- courage to challenge those they feel are wrong.

Inspiration can be gained from these beginners. They are the ones that will show their followers how to "open a window."

English Dept. Distributes Anthologies

ANTHOLOGY OF STUDENT WRITING, Volume 5, was distributed to English teachers Wednesday afternoon. Students who purchased the anthology earlier in the spring received the book.

"This year," said Mrs. Murray Sullivan, sponsor, "we tried to make the anthology something to treasure. A limited amount of copies were printed."

Anthology Committee consists of senior Barbara O'Guinn, junior Chyrl Curry, sophomore Thom Lemmons, and freshman Barbara Mayfield. Sponsors for this year were Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Ranny Lorch.

Committee compiled and edited the anthology from entries selected by the various English teachers. Four divisions were created--"War and Peace"; "Life and Death"; "Lessons"; and "Love."

Anthology cover was designed by Gloria Garrett and illustrated by Lynn Shy.

Sikeston's Bulldog golfers ended their 1971 season with an impressive nine wins and two losses. Some high points of the season included two tri-meet victories and a fifth place in the 13-team SEMO district tournament. Bulldog golfers opened the season with a win over Kennett and went on to mark up a three-game winning streak before dropping a match to Cape Central by two strokes.

Marking up victories over Dexter, Poplar Bluff, and Blytheville, Coach Gene Dawson's winning squad fell for its second loss of the season to Perryville.

District play placed the Bulldogs over eight other teams in a tournament which matched 13 of the area teams in a contest. Resulting from the district play, junior Tom Dawson collected the runner-up medalist honors and participated in the state tournament.

Although defeat met Dawson in the state tournament, the Bulldogs had the honor of a representative in the state competition.

With many returning lettermen to next year's squad, the outlook to the future may mean a championship squad.

It is our responsibilities, not ourselves, that we should take seriously.

Seniors Say Goodbye To SHS

Dear SHS,

It is the end of the year and the time has finally come for us to go. Behind us we are leaving a trail of memories. We now officially forfeit our senior position to the upcoming class of '72. We hope future years will be as memorable and successful as this year was for us. Even though we had our disappointments, we feel they have been outweighed and made worthwhile by the rewards and achievements.

This year has witnessed many "firsts" in the history of SHS. The spirit of our school has achieved a powerful boost through the effort of the newly organized Bleacher Bums. Enthusiastic cheers and colorful hats did much to spur our basketball team on to the regional championship and state tournament.

Other successful groups were originated during the year. Honors Band, consisting of selected musicians from the two varsity bands, started out on the right foot by receiving a one rating in state contest.

DAK, Drug Abuse Kills, was organized to inform students and hopefully reduce the use of harmful drugs in the Sikeston area.

Another "first" of the year was the all-student musical assembly given May 6 for the enjoyment of the student body and faculty.

Tradition was broken this year with the selection of disposable caps and gowns. However, it is unlikely that these mementos will be thrown away in the near future.

Red Peppers went through a few innovations with the addition of the black and white representatives. These newly-elected officials will iron out some problems which may arise during the next school year.

In the sports field, numerous triumphs were experienced by various Bulldog teams.

Our football boys had their moment of glory when they tromped over the Kennett Indians, 34-0. "That was the night that was!"

Even after going on to state competition, the game basketball fans will remember most was the Sikeston--Charleston encounter. School rivalry intensified emotions that had already reached a feverish pitch. When the game ended, SHS had returned to second place the school that so fervently insisted it was "number 1".

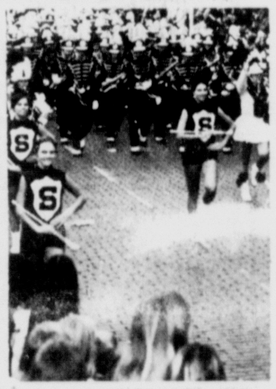
Baseball team also did its part in contributing to the athletic achievements of this year. Our "batman" were one of the eight teams left in the state competition playoffs before being beaten by defending champions Lafayette Lancers.

Royalty is a special recognition that is reserved for only seniors. Miss Sikeston candidates, football homecoming and winter sports courts, and Growler king and queen have their own moments which will never be forgotten.

Although we were not able to vote in the last election, senior student council members were instigators of the reorganization of school government.

As we go off to make a better world for those who remain behind we would like to leave a few parting words of wisdom..."Grasp all the fun and knowledge you can, for the carefree days of high school are short."

Sincerely,
Seniors '71



SENIOR SHS MARCHING BULLDOGS smile proudly as they keep in step to their last parade.

FRIENDSHIPS AND GOOD TIMES will never be forgotten as these seniors practice perfect formation for the snapshot.

New Madrid -- Walter McGee of Kewanee was here Monday.

Morehouse suffered its most disastrous fire last Friday night, when the entire plant of the Morehouse Stave Co., was destroyed together with 10 box cars standing nearby on a Frisco siding.

The officials of the Sikeston Band have decided to put on a concert one night each week. Their plans are to have one each Friday night at the Malone Park. The remains of Joshua Beauchamp were brought to Sikeston last Sunday morning from Cairo, Ill., where he died in St. Mary's Infirmary. Mr. Beauchamp had made his home here the last few year with his brother, Dallas Beauchamp.

That's The Law

When Bandit Shoots It's No Accident

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Dinkle's general store had everything but a general. and, he could have used one. In fact, he could have used a whole army since hold-up men came around almost as frequently as costomers.

One night, the irate merchant decided he had turned over his hard-earned money to transient gunmen for the last time. And, waving a baseball bat ofer his head as if it were a shillelagh, he chased one out of his store.

Unfortunately, before disappearing aroung a corner, the gunman fired a shot that cought Mr. Dinkle in the leg. Badly hobbled by the bullet, Mr. Dinkle filed a claim with his insurance company under an accident policy.

"Your getting shot was no accident," he was told. "The gunman aimed at you and hit you. Where's the accident?"

"In my being shot," responded the merchant. "Obviously, I didn't intend to get shot."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the merchant to collect under his accident policy?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held, in effect, that when a person chases a gunman he sets himself up as a clay pigeon and can anticipate being shot. Therefore, if he does get shot, it's no accident.

GIDEON -- Mrs. Roy A. Sale of Altus, Okla., has been selected as the 1970 Military Airlift Command Family Service Volunteer of the year at Altus AFB.

In ceremonies attended by base officials, a letter of congratulations from Gen. Jack J. Catton, MAC commander, was read.

The letter in part read:

"It is a distinct pleasure to offer you my congratulations on your selection as both the Altus AFB and the Military Airlift Command Family Services Volunteer of 1970 . . .

"Your work in the past year best exemplified the ideal Family Service Volunteer; the lady always ready to sacrifice her time and own personal interest to aid Air Force personnel and dependents in time of need or emergency."

Mrs. Sale began her Family Services work in February 1968 at Tinker AFB, Okla. There she served on the welcoming staff and held the positions of director of the loan locker and assistant coordinator. In 1968 she was a nominee for the Tinker Farmily Services Volunteer of the Year.

Since coming to Altus she has been named Volunteer of the Month in October 1969 and volunteer of the quarter for April to June 1970. Her top award previous to the MAC award was Volunteer of the Year at Altus.

She began 1970 as assistant coordinator. She took over as coordinator in February 1970 and effectively led the organization until October.

Not content to rest, she took over work with the loan locker, conducting a comprehsnsive inventory and instituting new procedures for more adequate control of loan items and setting up a more streamlined accounting procedure.

Mrs. Sale has accumulated more than 2000 hours of volunteer service in her three years as avolunteer. More than 1,000 of these hours have been contributed at Altus.

A native of Gideon, Mo., (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Walker), she finds time to enjoy reading, bowling, cycling and tennis despite her busy Family Services schedule.

She also contributes time a: a worker for the Thrift Shop as part of her NCO wives Club activities.

She and her husband, M/Sgt. Roy A. Sale, a flight engineer instructor with the 443rd Technical Training Squadron have four children, Ike, 16 Teresa, 15, Lvonne, 11 and James 10.

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

LAWMAKERS FACE CRUCIAL DECISIONS AS SESSION DRAWS TO A CLOSE

JEFFERSON CITY, -- As the Missouri Legislature enters its final two weeks before the June 15 adjournment date, it faces crucial decisions on many major issues.

Most important is the final state budget for 1971-72. The Senate and House are more than $70 million apart and last week had not yet begun conference committee action to resolve the differences.

Separate redistricting plans for Missouri's ten congressional seats must also b e worked out in conference soon.

The House has okayed a resolution to ratify a U. S. Constitutional Amendment permitting 18- year-olds to vote in all elections, but the Senate has yet to act on the measure, although it is now on the calendar and awaiting debate.

The Senate must also decide whether to approve strengthened air and water pollution laws which have already passed the House. Both are still in committee. A major drug reform bill is also sitting in a Senate committee.

Many of the new programs will have their destinies decided in the Senate's Budget Control Committee, which must okay any measure which will cost the state more than $50,000 during the coming year.

That committee will decide, for example, whether a $3 million scholarship program will be set up for students attending public and private colleges and universities in Missouri.

It will also have a say -so on a House -approved bill to provide services to non - public school students, such as guidance counseling, testing and remedial instruction.

The Budget Control Committee has a tight grasp on a constitutional amendment to change residency and terms in office provisions so Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth could square off for governor next year. The measure has cleared the House, but is not expected to get out of the Senate committee.

Tax measures appear to be wrapped up. Passage of the income tax increase has stilled the clamor for a sales tax hike, although bills for such hikes are sitting on House and Senate calendars in position for debate.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has vetoed a two - cent gas tax increase because it was not tied to his $475 million bond issue for construction of state roads. The governor is now urging the Highway Commission to mount an initiative petition drive to put the issue on the ballot, since the Senate has blocked the bond issue. It now appears that no more money will be available for road use, since the Senate failed in an attempt to override the governor's veto.

A constitutional amendment which would authorize the state to conduct a lottery and parimutuel betting on horse races is in position for Senate action, possibly this week. Supporters say it would raise between $10 and $15 million per year.

Several major bills have been killed in House and Senate committees. In each chamber committees nixed plans to preserve scenic rivers in the Ozarks region, for example. A liberalized abortion proposal was killed by a House committee.

A bill to set up no-fault auto insurance in the state is languishing without action in a House committee. Another House committee has failed to act on a "no-fault" divorce bill which, although it passed the Senate more than a month ago, was not referred to committee by House speaker James Godfrey, D-St. Louis, for three weeks.

The General Assembly can claim several accomplishments so far, including passage of the income tax increase, a strong strip - mining reclamation measure, a bill to permit sale of liquor on Sunday in businesses where ate least 50 per cent of income comes from food sales, and a law to extend fiar employment practices to employers of six or more persons.

In all, the governor has signed 25 bills into law.

Western Union Offices Shut Down by Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Two unions representing 20,100 employes struck Western Union today, closing its public offices across the country and halting the acceptance and delivery of domestic telegrams, money orders and overseas cables.

The United Telegraph Workers and the Communications Workers of America, both AFLCIO, walked off the job at 12:01 a.m. after talks had been broken off in the dispute over wages and job security.

Rejecting a company offer of a 20 per cent wage increase over two years, 4 per cent of which hinged on government approval of higher tariffs, the unions demanded a 31 per cent hike over two years.

"We very much regret that the unions representing our employes have chosen to inconvenience the public by calling a strike," the company president, Earl D. Hilburn, said in a statement.

"We know that our remaining differences will be equitably resolved—not on the picket line but at the bargaining table."

Although its public offices were closed, the company said it would maintain government communications services, leased private wires, the Telex and TWX teletype exchanges, various automated electronic data services and the new "mailgram" electronic message service, operated jointly with the post office.

Supervisory and engineering personnel were to fill in for striking employes on the government and business communication services, which are largely automated.

The UTW represents 17,000 teletype operators, clerks and installation and repair technicians across the country. The CWA is bargaining agent for 3,100 such workers in New York and New Jersey.

The company said its "final offer" called for a 6 per cent raise effective June 1, with another 4 per cent when and if the Federal Communications Commission approved higher tariffs. An additional 10 per cent would come in the second year.

A CWA spokesman said the union was demanding an 18 per cent wage increase effective June 1 and 13 per cent more the following year. The average wage of CWA members now is $3.47 an hour, the union said.

In addition to wages, the UTW negotiations involved job security issues including demands for a prohibition of contracting out workers and restrictions on personnel transfers.

Six weeks of bargaining preceded the breakdown in the talks on Sunday.
